FOREWORD BY THE MINISTER

Systematic communication and face-to-face interaction with the citizenry forms part of the GCIS's legislative and operational mandate to make a tangible difference in the lives of our people. The department is constitutionally mandated to ensure that all government communication campaigns and projects reflect the wide-ranging efforts being undertaken by government to transform the lives of our people, particularly the poorest of the poor.

Several campaigns coordinated in provinces and in communities within available resources include mall/taxi activations, door-to-door, seminars, dialogues, road intersections and community media. On the other hand, the GCIS coordinates an Imbizo programme whereby political principals interact with members of the public to share government information.

The August 2016 Cabinet Lekgotla, which marked the halfway point of the Fifth Administration's term of office, has invoked the role of GCIS to galvanise government's communication system. The GCIS should champion the effective communication of the achievements of the Medium Term Strategic Framework 2014-2019, which is government's five-year action plan as part of the implementation of the National Development Plan (NDP), the country's roadmap to eliminate poverty, reduce inequality and grow the economy by 2030.

This is the opportune time to redouble our efforts to reach out to the populace in order to rekindle their hope and confidence in government's noble plans to boost economic growth and create much-needed jobs, as embodied in the Nine-Point Plan. Life-changing opportunities being provided by government to improve the lives of our people should be communicated as widely as possible.

In addition to improving existing products and platforms to ensure effective and efficient dissemination of information, it is also imperative for the GCIS to embrace innovative methods to enhance its current capacity to reach out to as many people as possible in all parts of the country.

To enhance the effective coordination of the government communication system, departments should be encouraged to fulfil their obligation to submit progress reports on the implementation of their communication strategies. Communicators should also be encouraged to attend communication forums and cluster meetings.

Vuk'uzenzele newspaper should collaborate with the State-Owned Entities (SOEs) Communicators Association to introduce a section in the newspaper that focuses on the catalytic role played by SOEs, which are at the coalface of delivering life-changing services to the people.

In addition to existing agreements with other overseas news agencies, the SAnews has since entered into a news-sharing agreement with Sputnik, a news agency from Russia. Mutually beneficial partnerships invariably go a long way in promoting regional integration, nationalism and social cohesion, especially the need to prevent the unwanted scourge of xenophobia. Broader societal knowledge of our place in the world reaffirms and strengthens our historic connection to the developing nations of the South and begins to tackle some of the causes of the social tensions that spill over to attacks on foreign nationals.

It is imperative for the various GCIS products and platforms to be rationalised to remove the silos between units in line with the news media trend for a single multimedia content hub. This rationalisation should consider the effectiveness of each product, current product naming conventions and the impact of multiple brands on the department's operational budget. This holistic process should also contribute to the overall GCIS brand.

The Government Communication Policy is intended to ensure that communication at all spheres of government is well integrated, coherent, coordinated and consistent. It will ensure a consistent level of professionalism and will drive communication across all levels. We should establish new and strengthen existing relations with the mainstream and community media, which are complementing our fundamental efforts to highlight government campaigns and projects to the general public. All our communication messages should always give prominence to the NDP by profiling its far-reaching objectives.

The department must strengthen its coordination of communication through the cluster and provincial liaison systems to improve the entire communication machinery of government. Appropriate training should also be considered to equip government communicators with the requisite skills to catapult government communications to greater heights.

To bolster sectoral leadership, the GCIS must play a fundamental role in leading the marketing, advertising and communications sector to shape discourse in nation-building and social cohesion. This must involve the participation of academics, intellectuals, civil society and related government entities. This should result in a concrete response to the NDP's call to forge a united South Africa based on our shared destiny, as encapsulated in Outcome 14.

At an operational level, the department has been achieving unqualified audits over the past few years and this commendable feat is poised to continue unabated. Such a sterling performance can only be attributed to the existence of collective teamwork and collegiality within the department, complemented by an uncompromised sense of compliance in order to continuously improve audit outcomes

However, more work still needs to be done. Let us take strength from the President's call once again to place our people at the centre of our work by "building a participatory and responsive State, creating mass-based platforms to promote two-way communication with the people."

Minister of Communications

FOREWORD BY THE DEPUTY MINISTER

The GCIS is infinitely committed to sustaining its role and responsibility to provide relevant information that enables the public to become actively involved in the socio-economic and political transformation of South Africa. The department continues to drive coherent messaging across the three spheres on the key priorities of government, namely: employment; health; education; the fight against crime and corruption; rural development and land reform; access to housing and basic services; building a developmental and capable state; social cohesion, and a better Africa and a better world.

Effective communication is inextricably linked to socio-economic development, which manifests itself when the citizens use the information provided by government to improve their lives. Given the current challenges afflicting our people, which include among others the high rate of unemployment, especially among the youth, as well as spiralling crime, the GCIS is duty-bound to inspire public confidence in government's commitment to stimulate economic growth and create much-needed jobs, as articulated in the Nine-Point Plan.

Mindful of the limited resources at our disposal owing to the austerity measures implemented throughout government, we should continue to find innovative ways of doing more with less, but also cautious not to compromise the quality of the information being disseminated.

Since information is the lifeblood of any democracy, the GCIS should sustain and even surpass the increasing demand for information so that our people can make informed decisions regarding their future. There is a need to channel citizens to reach the epiphanic level of uncovering new ways to improve their lives by, among other things, pursuing business opportunities to become job creators instead of jobseekers.

The Government Segmentation Model, which was developed by the GCIS in the 2015/16 financial year, allows government communicators to have a better understanding of their target audiences, their needs and how to communicate with them. The GCIS continues to uphold its past successes by communicating government programmes, projects and plans to the public, in tandem with other departments. We must strive to keep in constant touch with our various audiences in order to remain relevant and live up to our commitment as a caring government.

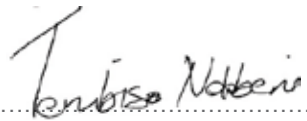

Most departments are benefiting from GCIS services such as the drafting of communication strategies, media engagement services, key messages, fact sheets and opinion pieces. Partnerships between departments will help to leverage our collective budgets to maximise our communication impact and prevent wasteful expenditure incurred when departments run separate campaigns on the same issues.

Through bulk buying, the GCIS continues to provide cost-effective media bulk-buying services to government. However, some departments are still not using the media bulk-buying and the media production services, and continue to produce and place adverts directly or through advertising agencies. It is imperative for departments to be encouraged to take advantage of the cost-efficient media bulk-buying service being provided by the GCIS.

GCIS products such as Vuk'uzenzele newspaper and the News Service (SAnews) play a critical role of empowering citizens with pertinent news and life-changing information. Through Thusong Service Centres, the department has an ubiquitous footprint in every province and a number of districts, which helps to fill the information void being experienced in far-flung rural areas. These communication platforms are meant to interface directly with the people and coordinate communication in provinces.

The GCIS continues to collaborate with the Inter-Ministerial Committee, which is responsible for championing and coordinating the work of government with regard to communicating programmes to the nation, as well as branding and marketing the country to South Africans and the world. By working together with the mainstream and community media respectively, we can expand our reach because in every government campaign or project, there is an enduring story to tell.

Ms Stella-Ndabeni Abrahams, MP
Deputy Minister of Communications

INTRODUCTION BY THE ACTING DIRECTOR-GENERAL (ADG)

The Constitution of the Republic of South Africa of 1996 clearly requires that citizens should be provided with information that is accurate, timely and proactive in order to empower and improve their lives. The GCIS has been mandated to fulfil the role of coordinating, guiding and advising on government communications. This includes media liaison, development communication and marketing.

By also providing an integrated, coordinated and coherent communications between government and the public, the GCIS seeks to enable the public to be involved in the country's transformation. It does this by driving coherent messaging across the three spheres (national, provincial and local government) on the key priorities of government, especially the implementation of the National Development Plan, which seeks to reduce poverty, unemployment and inequality by 2030.

However, owing to the shrinking fiscus and the global economic downturn, it has become difficult for government and particularly the GCIS, to continuously inform the South African public of government's programmes. Well-informed citizens are better equipped to use information from government to improve their lives.

The Cabinet-endorsed National Communication Strategy Framework (NCSF) calls for the need to improve our footprint by enhancing existing platforms and introducing new ones. Although the NCSF has been partially funded, the department has enhanced some of the communication products and platforms. In an effort to expand the reach and readership of some of our platforms, such as Vuk'uzenzele newspaper, the GCIS made several requests to National Treasury for additional funding to increase the print run and double the frequency of the newspaper.

As a result and due to continued austerity measures, coupled with the 2014 reorganisation of state, the number of copies of Vuk'uzenzele that are published fortnightly has decreased from 21.4 million copies to 18.7 million copies per year.

The GCIS continues to ensure that government information reaches the public through various products such as the News Service (SAnews); My District Today newsletter; Public Sector Manager magazine, and an annual edition of the South Africa Yearbook and Pocket Guide to South Africa.

Among other things, the department offers a valued corporate identity advisory for national and provincial government to protect the visual identity of the State. This function is implemented at an operational level of the department and takes place daily. Furthermore, regular workshops are held with government communicators and graphic designers to entrench best practice.

The GCIS has a staff complement which is largely reflective of the demographics of the nation. By the end of December 2016, Africans exceeded 75% target by 8%, coloureds are under-represented with 2% against the 9% target, Indians under-represented with 2% against the 5% target and whites are under-represented with 4% against the 11% target. However, the GCIS has the Human Resources Retention Strategy in place, and targeted recruitment was introduced to attract and appoint a capable workforce.

The department is blessed with a young workforce – 70% of staff members are in their late 20s to late 40s. The department has a vacancy rate of 8.59% below the 10% benchmark rate of the Department of Public Service and Administration. The GCIS spent 99.9% of its allocated budget of R365,5 million in 2015/16. It generated R4.203 million in revenue during the 2015/16 financial year from a variety of sources, including from the sale of products such as photos, videos and other communication material.

The departmental budgetary pressures have consistently over the past years not been able to be financed through the fiscus. However, despite this the department has over the past two financial years successfully instilled fiscal discipline on expenditure trends that are noncore to the business of the department. In line with National Treasury instructions, the GCIS successfully implemented cost-containment measures.

The GCIS received a clean audit for the 2015/16 Annual Report, which it maintained for the second year in succession. The department was one of the 10 national departments that received a clean audit for the 2015/16 financial year. The department continues to be hampered by insufficient personnel, a cut in the training budget and insufficient funds for Information Technology service-level agreements.

It should be noted that media-buying campaigns that the department procures on behalf of other government departments have been increasing at an impressive rate. Most, if not all, directorates have seen an increase in the volume of their work without an increase in their capacity.

However, it is beginning to show that the more austerity measures and budget cuts are implemented by government, staff may bear the brunt of being under constant and undue pressure due to increased workloads. Our human capital remains our greatest asset, therefore we must do more to ensure that our staff remain content and are given the tools to deliver on our mandate.

In the future we will have to continue our drive to make the GCIS an employer of choice by attracting and retaining employees, and also providing opportunities for development.

PART A:

STRATEGIC OVERVIEW

1. VISION

The pulse of communication excellence in government.

2. MISSION

To deliver effective strategic government communication; set and influence adherence to standards and coherence of message and proactively communicate with the public about government policies, plans, programmes and achievements.

3. ORGANISATIONAL VALUES

Value	Meaning and behaviour associated with the value
Professionalism	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The organisation strives to operate at the highest level of professionalism in all business dealings at all times. Professionalism is embodied in friendly, polite and business-like behaviour. It drives a person's appearance, demeanour and professional interactions, providing others with a positive first impression. Officials should demonstrate professionalism by being courteous, honest and behaving responsibly when dealing with clients and representing the organisation. Officials should demonstrate a level of excellence that goes beyond the department's normal work and official requirements.
Diversity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The department contributes to democracy and equality by promoting a safe, positive and nurturing environment for everyone. Officials should recognise and respect that each person is different. This difference can refer to race, ethnicity, gender, gender preference, age, religious beliefs, socioeconomic status or other ideologies. Officials should strive to understand and embrace each other's points of view, beyond simple tolerance, thus giving everyone the opportunity to express themselves. This attitude should extend to the public.
Openness and transparency	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The organisation should always be open with its communications, disclose all relevant information, and be accountable for its actions. Transparency demands that the department and its officials are straightforward and honest in their dealings at all times. Officials should provide colleagues and clients with access to accurate, relevant and timely information. The department recognises that transparency and accountability are essential for good governance.

Innovation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The department strives to be receptive to new ideas and adopt a flexible approach to problem-solving. Officials are encouraged to think beyond the norm. Officials are encouraged to help each other address issues that cannot be addressed by a person working in isolation.
Honesty and integrity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Officials should exercise honesty in all their business dealings and strive to protect the department's integrity at all times. Officials should commit to the actions they have undertaken on behalf of their clients. The department strives for equity, fairness and good ethics in its decision-making and expects its officials to do the same with regard to one another. The department honours its commitments to build a foundation for trust.

4. LEGISLATIVE AND CONSTITUTIONAL MANDATE

4.1 Constitutional mandate

Section 195(g) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa of 1996 forms the basis of the formation of the GCIS, where it stipulates that in order to foster transparency the public should be provided with information that is timely, accurate and importantly, accessible.

In 1998, the South African Communication Service was dissolved and the GCIS established by Cabinet, largely on the basis of recommendations contained in the report of the Task Group on Government Communications (Comtask: 1996: 58).

Government's mandate requires that its communication be expanded to enhance access to information that enables the public to participate in the country's transformation and in bettering their own lives; that it should bring the realities of our emergent and thriving democracy to the attention of the international community; and promote the African Renaissance, including regional integration and implementation of people-centred development programmes.

The primary responsibility of the GCIS is to ensure the democratic strength, success and security of the country through rapid, responsive and continuous communication of government's achievements in meeting the mandate to rule given by the citizens of South Africa. The strategic intent speaks of necessity and therefore of the broad agenda of the manifesto of the ruling party. Therefore, the GCIS is responsible for providing strategic leadership and coordinating government communications that ensures that the public is informed, and have access to government programmes and policies that benefit them.

This GCIS APP is informed by the above-stated mandate, various relevant legislative mandates, and related government policies and directives outlined below.

4.2 Legislative mandate

In the execution of its functions and in line with its founding legislation, the GCIS complies with the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa of 1996, with specific reference to the following sections:

- 4.2.1 Section 41: Cooperative governance values.
- 4.2.2 Section 195: Basic values and principles governing public administration.
- 4.2.3 Sections 231: International agreements.
- 4.2.4 The Public Finance Management Act (PFMA), 1999 (Act 1 of 1999), as amended.
- 4.2.5 The National Treasury framework on developing strategic plans and APPs.
- 4.2.6 The 2014 – 2019 Medium Term Strategic Framework (MTSF).

4.3 Policy mandates

- 4.3.1 The GCIS's corporate strategy is underpinned by the 2014 – 2019 National Communication Strategy Framework (NCSF) approved by Cabinet in June 2014. Working with other government departments, the GCIS will drive the implementation of the NCSF across the communication system over the Medium Term Expenditure Framework (MTEF) period.
- 4.3.2 The NCSF recognises the importance that President Jacob Zuma and the National Executive have attached to communications by establishing a Ministry of Communications responsible for an overarching communication policy and strategy, information dissemination and publicity, and branding of the country locally and abroad.

5. UPDATED SITUATIONAL ANALYSIS

5.1 Introduction

The GCIS is mandated to coordinate, guide and advise on government communication. This includes media liaison, development communication and marketing. It provides an integrated, coordinated and coherent communications function between government and the public. It seeks to enable the public to be involved in the country's transformation and drives coherent messaging across the three spheres on the key priorities of government.

The Constitution of the Republic of South Africa of 1996 requires that citizens are provided with information that is accurate, timely and proactive in order to empower and improve their lives. To meet this requirement, the GCIS coordinates a government communication system by using its platforms, as mechanisms for joint planning and implementation of government communication campaigns and programmes for government.

Owing to the shrinking fiscus and the global economic downturn, it has become even more difficult for government and particularly the GCIS, to continuously inform the South African public of government's programmes, among other things. When citizens are informed, they are better equipped to use government information, to keep track of government's performance and to support the programmes government is implementing. We are facing challenges on other fronts as well; climate change is putting a strain on our water resources and we have challenges in meeting an increasing electricity demand.

At the same time a variety of societal pressures are coming to the fore. We have seen student protests over the high cost of tertiary education and economic exclusion, and calls for transformation at universities. The country has also experienced heightened and violent service delivery protests which may be an indication that more information on government programmes and services is required. Given this challenging environment it is essential that the GCIS should underscore and unpack what government is doing to address the many pressing issues that we face. These challenges come at the time when demands for information across society are high, with limited information reaching our people due to limited resources. In light of this we must focus anew on the role of communication led by GCIS in taking South Africa forward.

5.2 Performance Delivery Environment

Information is the lifeblood of any democracy and armed with information, our citizens will be able to access the multitude of government services and interventions which are often underused. The GCIS should be at the forefront of outlining latest developments pertaining to the nine key priorities: employment; health; education; the fight against crime and corruption, rural development and land reform; access to housing and basic services; building a developmental and capable state; social cohesion, and a better Africa and a better world. The GCIS facilitated the development of a five-year communication strategy, which focuses on the Nine-Point Plan to grow and transform the economy, create jobs and attract investment. Plans on the Nine-Point Plan for 2017 include the development of a booklet (mid-term progress report) and a leaflet (narrative with nine priority interventions), and the creation of a micro-portal (a repository of information products, statements, speeches, photos, videos, etc).

Other events on the Nine-Point Plan include Post-SoNA cluster media briefings to provide a progress report on the plan and a National Stakeholder Imbizo facilitated by the GCIS in partnership with stakeholders such as Brand South Africa and Proudly South African.

The GCIS publishes the biennial Media Landscape, which explores latest trends and issues in the media environment. Some of the country's most prolific writers and thinkers are invited to contribute articles reflecting on pertinent issues, such as social media.

It also conducts public opinion research to understand the different audiences that government delivers services to and communicates with. Research findings contribute to understanding how the communication campaigns should be designed for messages to impact on the target audiences. Therefore, the GCIS has conducted ongoing quantitative tracker research and a qualitative research project to assist government to keep track of the mood, perception and the information needs of the public. However the most critical element for government is to offer strategic communication, with communication campaigns that are aimed at changing the behaviour of target audiences. Government communicators need to design campaigns that are meant to shift the perceptions of target audiences and lead them to take policy-related actions. This challenge will be addressed incrementally over the medium-term period.

Firstly, during the 2015/16 financial year, the GCIS developed the Government Segmentation Model (GSM), which is based on the analysis and synthesis of comprehensive citizen research and highlights the needs, concerns and characteristics of different citizen groups and segments them into five broad groups. The GSM allows government communicators to have a better understanding of their target audiences, their needs and how to communicate with them. Secondly, comprehensive cluster research reports were produced to guide the planning and informed communication strategies of communication campaigns. Some 83 research advisory reports for various national departments and Premiers' offices were produced to also inform the government campaigns and initiatives on key priority areas.

Another challenge is the evaluation of communication campaigns to measure the effectiveness of government communication activities. In addressing the challenges, the GCIS produced two reports on the evaluation of government communication campaigns and two reports on media analysis during the 2015/16 financial year. Although the department endeavours to produce more evaluation reports for various government communication campaigns, there are limited budget constraints due to austerity measures placed by the central government. The communication campaigns that will be evaluated over the medium-term period will be those aligned to the priorities of government. Six reports on government communication monitoring and evaluation will be produced to measure and determine campaigns' effects on government policy and inform future campaign designs.

The GCIS constantly strives to empower community media both with content and advertising as part of the overall transformation of the media landscape and promoting the diversity of the content. As such, on a daily basis the GCIS provides news bulletins to all community radio stations for their free consumption and use. In addition, the news agency, SAnews provides ongoing written content for community press on a daily basis. Every district and provincial office of the GCIS uses its partnership with all community media in their areas to disseminate information. The GCIS provides a unique service to community radio and their listeners through the "Talk to your Minister" call-in programmes which hook up over 65 community radio stations at once.

Through bulk buying, the GCIS continues to provide cost-effective media bulk-buying services to government. The media-buying clients increased from 40 in 2014/15 to 53 in the 2015/16 financial year; and the number of campaigns from 230 in 2014/15 to 280 in the 2015/16 financial year. The total billing for this period was also increased from R252 834 954.46 in 2014/15 to R283 061 705.02 in 2015/16. Furthermore, the advertising expenditure on community media was also increased from R35 621 403.36 in 2014/15 to R36 194 629.31 in 2015/16.

A number of government departments continue to benefit considerably from the cost-effective bulk-buying service being provided by the GCIS. From April 2012 to February 2017, the GCIS's media-buying unit allocated 14% of the total advertising budget to community media platforms – radio, television and print (varying per year) with the majority of it being allocated to radio stations.

The GCIS continues to fulfil its mandate of communicating government programmes, projects and plans to the public. The organisation has begun to take a leading role in supporting departments with their communication. Most notably in the form of drafting communication strategies, media engagement services, key messages, fact sheets, opinion pieces and Question and Answer documents, and production of communication products intended for citizens.

During the 2015/16 financial year, 28 cluster meetings with Heads of Communication (HoCs) from national departments were held. During these meetings the GCIS and HoCs planned, implemented and reviewed cluster and priority communication plans. However, other mechanisms to liaise with and share information amongst communicators were used, such as the Government Communicators' Forum (GCF) website, regular email communiqués and a bulk SMS service. There are, however, challenges in the coordination of the government communication system, departments are required to submit progress reports on the implementation of their communication strategies. Some of the departments fail to submit the reports. A gap still exists with implementing post-communication plans for programmes to ensure government sustains the message. The attendance of communication forums and cluster meetings has been very poor, despite numerous attempts by some clusters to encourage communicators to attend. The department has planned to hold 16 strategic engagements with government communicators to improve and strengthen campaign management through the integrated approach and support of project management practices. Some 50 reports will be developed on the implementation of the 2017/18 cluster communication plans and shared with the DG clusters.

The Cabinet-endorsed NCSF calls for the need to improve our footprint by enhancing existing platforms and introducing new ones. Although the NCSF has been partially funded, the department has enhanced some of the communication products and platforms. In an effort to expand the reach and readership of some of our platforms, such as Vuk'uzenzele newspaper, the GCIS made several requests to National Treasury for additional funding to increase the print run and double the frequency of the newspaper.

Even though the GCIS has in 2011 transformed the publication from a magazine to a newspaper format – which led to the newspaper being published monthly and subsequently fortnightly from August 2015, with an increased print run versus the magazine published every second month – this did not address the ever-growing demand for the publication. As a result and due to continued austerity measures, coupled with the 2014 reorganisation of the State, the number of copies of Vuk'uzenzele that are published fortnightly has decreased from 21.4 million copies to 18.7 million copies per year.

Vuk'uzenzele newspaper focuses on communicating government programmes and policies, including socio-economic opportunities created by government programmes, and how to access them. The newspaper also features paid-for public sector recruitment vacancies, campaign advertising, tenders and notices. A total of 850 000 copies per edition is distributed directly to the citizens at their homes in all nine provinces, mostly in deep rural, rural and peri-urban areas. The newspaper is partly published in all official languages and also available in Braille.

The GCIS has since August 2015 explored another funding model to expand the reach of the newspaper by carrying paid for government recruitment advertising intended to generate revenue that will be used to increase the print run of the newspaper for the coming period. Another challenge is persuading government departments to support this government media platform to carry their recruitment advertising – the take up is currently low but improving. In June 2016, Vuk'uzenzele celebrated its 100th edition with a total of 165 million copies distributed since its first edition in 2005. More people would be reached if the frequency and print run are increased.

The GCIS has also embraced technology and the communication dividend it can provide. This has also allowed the department to enhance the products and platforms in order to grow the share of voice of government in the public arena. The android and iOS app offers a new entry point to www.gov.za, home of government's public information. The app allows users to view the latest available jobs in the Public Service; tender bulletins; news and radio bulletins; information on services such as renewing your driver's licence or renewing your car licence disk. The app gives users quick access to government leaders, events, speeches and other government information. It has contact details of all government departments across all spheres of government. It lives alongside the Vuk'uzenzele newspaper app which allows users to download and read the government newspaper that is distributed nationwide. This app extends the reach of the newspaper beyond the printed copy to mobile users.

The GCIS will ensure that government information reaches the public, as it does not expect the media to convey each and every detail of government's work. PSM magazine is intended to meet the information needs of middle and senior managers in the public sector, including State-owned entities and Chapter Nine institutions, by showcasing the good work being done in the public sector. It also serves as a platform to share knowledge, best practices and innovations within the public sector. It is the only publication of its kind catering for public sector/government managers.

The GCIS has a footprint in every province and districts through Thusong Service Centres. These are communication platforms which are meant to interface directly with the people and coordinate communication in provinces. The department will implement 486 campaigns to market Thusong Service Centres to ensure that the public continues to access government services. Several campaigns are coordinated in provinces and communities within available resources. However, owing to limited resources the department has scaled down on the communication campaigns to be implemented. In the 2015/16 financial year, 1 920 development communication campaigns were coordinated and implemented through various platforms such as mall/taxi activations, door-to-door, seminars, dialogues, road intersections and community media. Of these, 367 communication projects on social cohesion were activated.

These interventions reached more than 47 million people. However, the department has planned to implement 1 200 development communication campaigns and 1 800 community and stakeholder liaison visits to engage directly with communities and key constituencies in our society. On the other hand, the GCIS coordinates an Imbizo programme whereby political principals interact with members of the public, to promote government accountability and ensure that citizens can actively participate in government initiatives.

The media are essential partners who can ensure that citizens have access to information which is essential to the health of our democracy and the development of our country. Media are well placed to ensure that citizens make responsible and informed choices rather than acting out of ignorance or misinformation. The stories generated by the media can contribute to our development by allowing South Africans to make better decisions or take advantage of opportunities. The daily rapid response service has indicated an imbalance in how the media reports about government. There should be a balanced coverage, whereby the media constructively criticises the government's delivery failures but also include how government managed to deliver services and improve the lives of South African citizens. Government is concerned about the limited content diversity in the media. Recycled news is often regurgitated on different platforms by different media houses, which stifles media diversity. The department, in partnership with the Department of Communications is prioritizing the Media Transformation project, which will address some of the issues.

Through intensive media engagement, South Africans can be mobilised to interact with government content and messages. However, this will require greater focus on regular media briefings, engagements with the FCA, PGA and SANEF members as well as media tours to project sites and off-record or editorial briefings. In this regard, the department has planned to hold 33 engagements between government officials and senior journalists, to foster and build on the relationship between government and the media.

By working together we can ensure that the media does more to unpack the work of government, and highlights our successes and challenges. The departmental goal of enhancing the image of government, is supported by the implementation of other strategic goals and objectives indicated in the APP. As the department implements the set targets in the APP there will be a catalytic effect that will result in the enhanced image of government and that of the State. The GCIS continues to offer a valued Corporate Identity advisory services for national and provincial government, to protect the visual identity of the State. This function is implemented at an operational level of the department and takes place daily. Furthermore, regular workshops are held with government communicators and graphic designers to entrench best practice. However, during the 2013/14 financial year, the department conducted an audit on government's implementation of the corporate identity at national level. The implementation of the recommendations required a substantial budget and could not be rolled-out.

5.3 Organisational Environment

The GCIS works side by side with the Ministry of Communications and the DoC in providing a coherent and all-encompassing communication service to government and the public. The 2008 Review of GCIS emphasised the need for professionalising communication, as a result the GCIS is working on finalising the Government Communications Policy, which is aimed at ensuring that communication at all spheres of government is well-integrated, coherent, coordinated and consistent. The policy will ensure a consistent level of professionalism and will drive communications across all levels. Government communications is now also being coordinated by the Inter-Ministerial Committee (IMC) on Information and Publicity. The IMC is responsible for championing and coordinating the work of government with regard to communicating programmes to the nation, as well as branding and marketing the country to South Africans and the world.

The GCIS has a staff complement which is largely reflective of the demographics of the nation. By the end of December 2016, Africans exceeded 75% target by 8%, coloureds are under-represented with 2% against the 9% target, Indians under-represented with 2% against the 5% target and whites are under-represented 4% against the 11% target. However, the GCIS has the HR retention strategy in place and targeted recruitment was introduced to attract and appoint a capable workforce. The GCIS is blessed with a young workforce – 70% of staff are in their late 20s to late 40s. The department has a vacancy rate of 8.59% below the 10% benchmark rate of the Department of Public Service and Administration (DPSA). However, between the third quarter of 2015/16 and first quarter of 2016/17, the department noticed a high turnover at senior management level but the recruitment process to fill the vacant posts has commenced.

The GCIS spent 99.9% of its allocated budget of R365,5 million in 2015/16. It generated R4.203 million in revenue during the 2015/16 financial year from a variety of sources, including from the sale of products such as photos, videos and other communication material. The departmental budgetary pressures have consistently over the past years not been financed through the fiscus. However, despite this the department has over the past two financial years successfully instilled fiscal discipline on expenditure trends that are noncore to the business of the department. In line with National Treasury instructions, the GCIS successfully implemented cost-containment measures.

The GCIS received a clean audit for the 2015/16 Annual Report, which it maintained for the second year in succession. Departments or entities are regarded to have obtained a clean-audit opinion based on the reliability of their financial statements, the reliability of their information regarding their pre-determined objectives and compliance with key legislation in accordance with the PFMA of 1999. The department was one of the 10 national departments that received a clean audit for the 2015/16 financial year. The department continues to be hampered by insufficient personnel, a cut in the training budget and insufficient funds for IT service-level agreements. It should be noted that media-buying campaigns that the department procures on behalf of other government departments have been increasing at an impressive rate. The Media Buying, Supply Chain and Financial Management directorates have seen an increase in the volume of their work without an increase in their capacity.

Determining the outcomes and impact of the work done by the department and documenting challenges with service delivery, to a limited degree, led to poor target setting and partial compliance with the requirements of the SMART (Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Realistic and Time-bound) principles. This is owing to limited resources and the fact that most of the work done by the GCIS is demand-driven, especially in areas such as media buying, cluster communication, media engagement and other disciplines. The other hindrance to the determination of the impact and outcomes of the work done by the department is the inherent nature of the mandate of the department – that of coordinating the government-wide communication system; meaning, the work of other government departments. To address this issue, the department will in the short term tighten the monitoring of the implementation of the outputs it has set itself out to achieve. In the longer term, the department will request additional funding within the fiscal constraints of government, to address the capacity, and resources to address the outcomes and impact of government communications.

5.4 Can the GCIS continue to deliver on its mandate?

Given the fiscal and socio-political environment, can the GCIS deliver on its mandate? An answer to this question can possibly be found through looking at the past. History tells us that whenever there have been challenges the GCIS has risen to them through bold new approaches or through innovative and strategic thinking. However, it is beginning to show that the more austerity measures and budget cuts are implemented by government. GCIS will fail to respond competently in a volatile, complex and increasingly ambiguous communication environment.

Our human capital remains our greatest asset; therefore we must do more to ensure that our staff remain motivated and engaged, and are provided the tools to deliver on our mandate. We must continue to view people management in GCIS as a strategic priority. When people are managed effectively they can assist the organisation to grow, achieve its vision, mission and strategic objectives. For this reason, senior managers have been and continue to be trained in coaching, mentorship and other management and leadership development programmes to enhance their skills.

In the future we will have to continue our drive to make the GCIS an employer of choice by attracting and retaining employees, and by providing opportunities for development.

The road ahead will be more difficult than it has ever been before. All government departments are pushing for an ever larger slice of the budget to meet pressing socio-economic needs.

In such an environment it is likely that our budget will remain largely static. But within these restrictions we must continue to do more to ensure that all South Africans have easy access to government information.

5.5 Conclusion

As we move forward we will be faced with two realities. The first reality is dwindling resources. We will simply have to learn to live within these restrictions by working smarter and using the vast resources that sometimes lie dormant in our sister government departments.

The second reality we face is an ever more restless public who want to see both social and economic change. In such an environment it is natural that the government will come under close scrutiny and will face challenges on issues such as policy and the direction of the country.

Going forward we need to explore and find creative ways in which communicators can facilitate and strengthen participatory democracy in workplaces, schools, hospitals and clinics, and in our communities. We must do more to promote a culture of dialogue and robust engagement across society.

Most importantly, we must do more to ensure that public representatives are constantly in touch with the people, listen and respond speedily to their concerns and needs. If we are to rise to these challenges, government and government communicators in particular must get actively involved in the battle of ideas.

The GCIS should lead this charge and inspire other communicators and ensure that government's voice becomes more notable in public discourse.

Our drive to set the agenda will require enhanced coordination of content and messages between all spheres of government. The phenomenal growth and ever-expanding influence of community and public media offers exciting new avenues for government to explore.

We must also explore partnerships between departments so that citizens are informed about our policies and programmes in order to improve their lives. We can do this by leveraging our collective budgets to maximise our impact. It is not desirable or effective when departments run separate campaigns on the same issues.

The GCIS can be the body that harnesses these into mega and coordinated campaigns and projects that have a much bigger impact and longevity.

5.6 Organisational Structure

The GCIS has a staff complement of 437 employees out of a total establishment of 475.

The GCIS implements its mandate, goals and objectives through the following three programmes, each headed by a Deputy Director-General.

5.6.1 PROGRAMME 1: Administration

Purpose: Provide strategic leadership, management and support services to the department.

- Subprogramme 1.1: Departmental Management
- Subprogramme 1.2: Strategic Management
- Subprogramme 1.3: Human Resources
- Subprogramme 1.4: Information Management and Technology
- Subprogramme 1.5: Financial Administration
- Subprogramme 1.6: Internal Audit.

5.6.2 PROGRAMME 2: Content Processing and Dissemination

Purpose: Provide strategic leadership in government communication to ensure coherence, coordination, consistency, quality, impact and responsiveness of government communication.

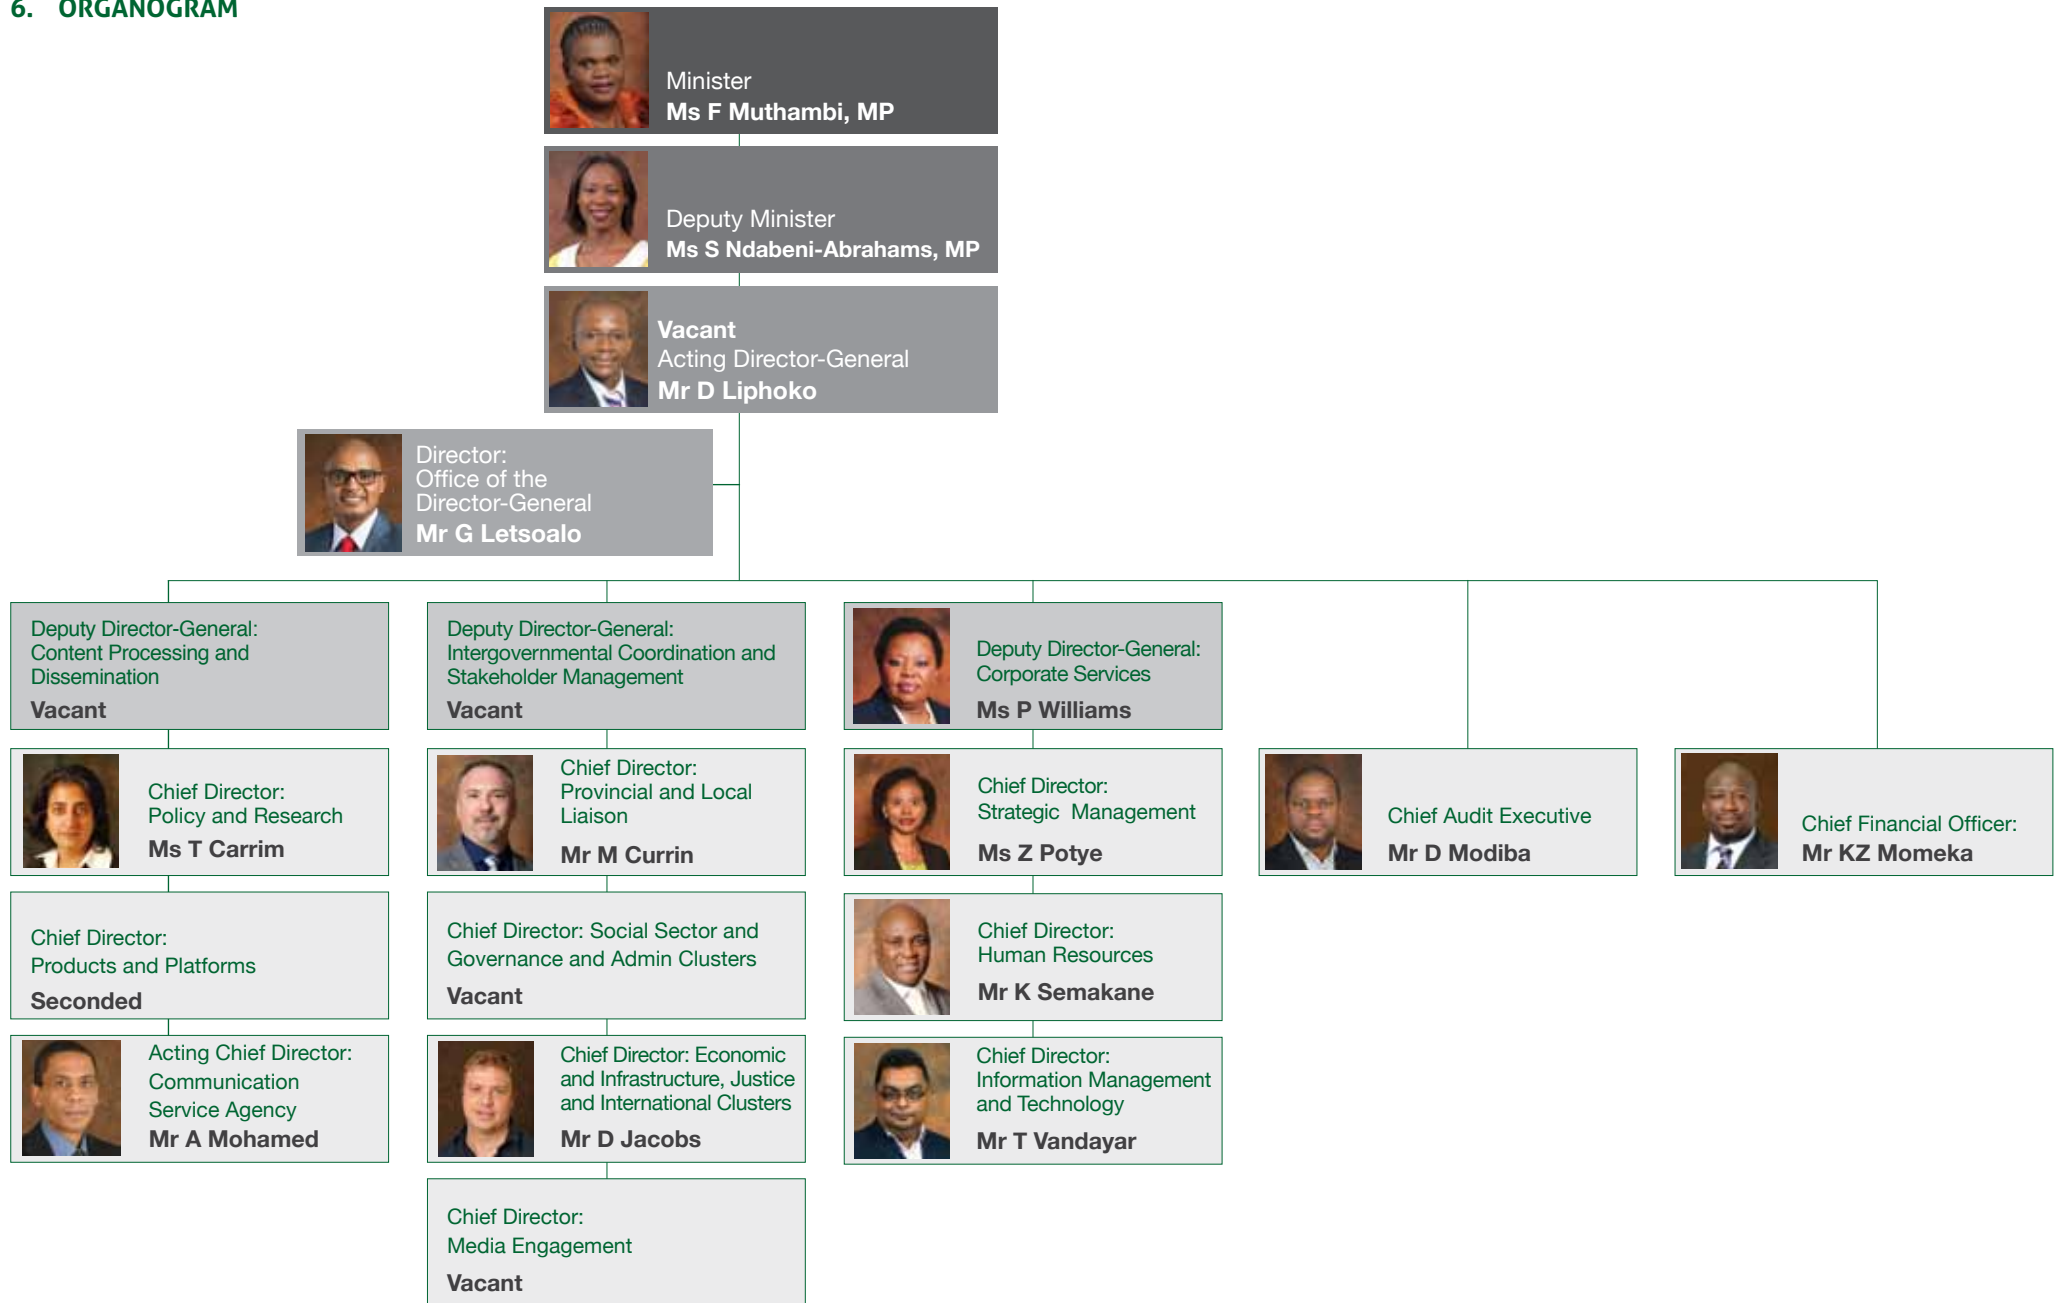

- Subprogramme 1.1: Management
- Subprogramme 1.2: Products and Platforms
- Subprogramme 1.3: Policy and Research
- Subprogramme 1.4: Communication Service Agency.

5.6.3 PROGRAMME 3: Intergovernmental Coordination and Stakeholder Management

Purpose: Implementation of development communication, through mediated and unmediated communication and sound stakeholder relations and partnerships.

- Subprogramme 1.1: Management
- Subprogramme 1.2: Media Engagement

7.2 Relating expenditure trends to the strategic outcome oriented goals

The National Development Plan emphasises the need to unite all South Africans around a common goal, ensure citizens are active in their own development, and build a capable and developmental state. This goal is expressed in Outcome 12 (an efficient, effective and development-oriented public service) and Outcome 14 (a diverse, socially cohesive society with a common national identity) of government's 2014-2019 MTSF. To support the realisation of these outcomes, the GCIS will continue to focus on providing strategic communications and facilitating active citizen participation over the medium term. The bulk of these activities includes conducting research on government communication strategies and compiling communications products, such as Vuk'uzenzele newspaper, media bulk-buying services which are designed to reduce the cost to government on advertising and conducting outreach campaigns.

The department was allocated R405.9 million in 2017/18, R432.4 million in 2018/19 and R461.7 million in 2019/20. Cabinet-approved budget reductions of R3.5 million over the medium term are to be mainly for compensation of employees, goods and services and payments of capital assets. Compensation of employees comprise on average 59% of the budget over the medium term. Some 61.9% of the department's allocation over the medium term is spent in the Content Processing and Dissemination Programme as well as the Intergovernmental Coordination and Stakeholder Management Programme and 38.1% on the Administration programme. Spending on goods and services over the medium term is expected to be primarily on operating leases, travel and subsistence and operating expenses relating to the publication of the monthly Vuk'uzenzele newspaper and the annual Pocket Guide to South Africa. The department will focus over the medium term on coordinating and professionalising government communication and making it as cost-effective as possible.

PART B:

STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES

STRATEGIC GOALS	STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES
1. A responsive, cost-effective, compliant and business-focused organisation.	1.1 Provide adequate and effective Corporate Services functions in pursuit of good governance.
2. Professionalise the communication system by building a reliable knowledge base and through communication products.	2.1 Produce government's communication products and services to grow the share of the voice of government messages in the public arena.
	2.2 Provide strategic leadership and support in government communication through public opinion research and analysis of media coverage to understand the communication environment and inform government messages.
	2.3 Provide efficient and effective communication services.
3. Maintain and strengthen a well-functioning communication system that proactively informs and engages the public.	3.1 Implement a proactive and reactive media and public engagement system by building, maintaining and improving relations with the media and drive the government communication agenda.
	3.2 Improve interdepartmental coordination by joint planning and sharing of messages across the three spheres of government to ensure coherence and alignment of government messages.
	3.3 An informed and empowered citizenry on government's policies, plans, programmes and achievements to increase public participation in government.

8. DEPARTMENTAL PROGRAMMES

8.1 Programme 1: Administration

Programme purpose	Provide strategic leadership, management and support services to the department.
Strategic goal 1	A responsive, cost-effective, compliant and business-focused organisation.
Strategic objectives 1.1	Provide adequate and effective Corporate Services functions in pursuit of good governance.

The programme's functions are organised into the following five subprogrammes:

- Strategic Management is responsible for the development and implementation of strategic management processes, procedures and systems in compliance with relevant legislation. These include the coordination of the development and implementation of the department's strategic and APPs, performance monitoring and reporting, and implementation of an enterprise risk management for the department.
- Human Resources (HR) is responsible for strategic leadership in the implementation of the department's HR management strategy.
- Information Management and Technology (IM&T) is responsible for the establishment and support of IM&T systems in the GCIS.
- The Chief Financial Officer provides the department with overall financial and supply chain and facility management services, and guides management in complying with legislative requirements, budget planning and administration.
- Internal Audit improves risk management, control and governance processes.

Strategic Objective 1.1	Provide adequate and effective Corporate Services functions in pursuit of good governance.
Objective Statement	Adequate and effective Corporate Services will be provided through the implementation of strategic management processes and procedures, IM&T governance, sound financial management and HR practices as well as conducting audit services.
Baseline	Unqualified audit opinion with no matters of emphasis.

8.2 Programme 2: Content Processing and Dissemination

Programme purpose	Provide strategic leadership in government communication to ensure coherence, coordination, consistency, quality, impact and responsiveness of government communication.
Strategic goal 2	Professionalise the communication system by building a reliable knowledge base and through communication products.
Strategic objectives	2.1 Produce government communication products and provide services to grow the share of the voice of government messages in the public arena.
	2.2 Provide strategic leadership and support in government communication through public opinion research and analysis of media coverage to understand the communication environment and inform government messages.
	2.3 Provide efficient and effective communication services.

The programme's functions are organised into the following three subprogrammes:

- Products and Platforms develops content for the GCIS. Funding for the subprogramme will be used for writing assignments; language services for products that require translation, editing and proofreading content; managing the development of government and departmental/provincial websites; and the production of government publications. The subprogramme is also responsible for the development of the government communication strategy.
- Policy and Research conducts research through independent service providers to assess how government should address the public's information needs. It also monitors media coverage of issues affecting government and the country. It further provides an analysis on how the media interprets government policies and programmes; formulates policy proposals where it is required and assesses public perceptions in relation to government performance.
- Communication Service Agency (CSA) provides media bulk-buying services and media production services to government. It also develops distribution strategies for all government communications and oversees distribution services outsourced to service providers. The chief directorate manages national government's corporate identity. It further provides marketing and distribution services for the GCIS and other government departments.

8.3 Programme 3: Intergovernmental Coordination and Stakeholder Management

Programme purpose	Implementation of development communication, through mediated and unmediated communication and sound stakeholder relations and partnerships.
Strategic goal 3	Maintain and strengthen a well-functioning communication system that proactively informs and engages the public.
Strategic objectives	3.1 Implement a proactive and reactive media and public engagement system by building, maintaining and improving relations with the media and drive the government communication agenda.
	3.2 Improve interdepartmental coordination by joint planning and sharing of messages across the three spheres of government to ensure coherence and alignment of government messages.
	3.3 An informed and empowered citizenry on government's policies, plans, programmes and achievements to increase public participation in government.

The programme's functions are organised into the following subprogrammes:

- Media Engagement leads and drives interaction and communication between government and the media. Funding in this subprogramme will be used to ensure effective liaison between Ministers and the media; manage ongoing media liaison services to government by providing government information; establishing, strengthening and maintaining working relationships with foreign media and independent media; and establishing relations with South African missions and parliamentary stakeholders with the view of disseminating government information and key targeted messages.
- Cluster Communication provides strategic communication, planning, coordination and support to clusters. It provides leadership and professional project management services for cluster communication campaigns.
- Provincial and Local Liaison ensures that the NCSF is presented to the provinces for alignment. Funding will be used to procure various media channels, HR capacity, platforms and materials to promote government messages to the public at local levels. The subprogramme is also responsible for promoting the Thusong Service Centres to the public, as well as ensuring that government departments send different print products and materials to these centres. The subprogramme also coordinates the Izimbizo programme of government.

ANNEXURE A:

REVISIONS TO THE 2015/16 – 2016/20 STRATEGIC PLAN

1. REVISIONS TO THE 2015/16 – 2016/20 STRATEGIC PLAN

1.1. 2016-2020 STRATEGIC RISKS ASSESSMENT

1.1.1 The GCIS submits its annual performance and strategic plans to the National Treasury and the DPME annually on legislated dates, for comments. The DPME has consistently provided technical inputs to the GCIS plans. During the 2016-2019 APP development process, the DPME provided comments that necessitated amendments to some of the department's goals and strategic objectives.

1.1.2 In addressing the comments from the DPME, the GCIS redeveloped the strategic risks it tabled with the 2015-2020 Strategic Plan, informed by the aforementioned changes. The strategic risks contained in the 2015-2020 GCIS Strategic Plan became operational risks and the Manco at a Risk Identification Workshop held on 12 June 2016, identified four organisational 2017-2020 strategic risks as an amendment to the department's Strategic Plan. The GCIS risk registers are developed in compliance with the department's approved Enterprise Risk Management Framework and the National Treasury Risk Management Framework for the Public Sector.

1.1.3 STRATEGIC RISKS FOR THE 2016-2020 FINANCIAL YEAR

Risk classification	High-level Risk Definition	Consequences	Residual Risk Rating	Mitigation/Treatment Plan
R1	Inability to provide relevant information to targeted audiences	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Disempowered and uninformed citizenry. Limited reach (footprint). Low public confidence. 	High	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Segmented approach to all audiences. Effective use of GCIS products and platforms. Collaboration with other government departments on campaigns.
R2	Inability to lead and influence the issues in the environment timeously	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Image of government is negatively impacted. Losing the battle of ideas and credibility. 	High	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Rapid response, opinion pieces, key messages. Op-Eds, media liaison. Opinion research. Stakeholder relations at all three spheres of government. Localisation of national content.
R3	Inability to attract human capital that is responsive to the changing environment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Poor quality of work. Credibility of the department. Loss of existing clients and service providers. Poor public confidence. 	High	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Effective implementation of HR plans and policies. Regular report on governance matters. Recruitment of skills personnel. Training and development programmes. Assessment of qualifications and criminal records of recruited staff by the State Security Agency.
R4	Failure to effectively support the execution of the GCIS mandate.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Low public confidence. Delayed service delivery. 	High	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Effective implementation of corporate policies, strategies and plans, including IT Governance. Regular reporting on governance matters. Development and implementation of compliant strategic plans and APPs. Recruitment of skilled personnel.

2. STRATEGIC GOAL AND STRATEGIC OBJECTIVE

- 2.1. The strategic goal: Enhance the image of government and the strategic objective: Manage the corporate identity for national government, has been removed from the 2017/18-2019/20 APP.
- 2.2. The departmental goal of enhancing the image of government is supported by the implementation of other strategic goals and objective indicated in the APP. As the department implements the set targets in the APP, there will be a catalytic effect that will result in the enhanced image of government and that of the State.
- 2.3. The GCIS continues to offer a valued corporate identity advisory service for national and provincial government, to protect the visual identity of the State. This function is implemented at an operational level of the department and takes place daily. As result the targets for corporate identity has been relocated from the APP to the Operational Plan.

3. ADJUSTMENTS OF TARGETS IN 2016/17-2018/19 APP

- 3.1. During the first half of the 2016/17 financial year the department realised a decrease in the number of requests for various communication services and some of the targets were not met. This encouraged the department to review some of the indicators, especially those that are demand-driven.
- 3.2. The DPME and the Internal Audit unit provided inputs on the first draft of the GCIS 2017/18-2019/20 APP, to remove operational targets from the APP and to also refine certain targets so that they are measurable. The changes are indicated per budget programme in the tables below.

Programme 2: Content Processing and Dissemination
Item	2016/17-2018/19 APP	Adjustments in the 2017/18-2019/20 APP

Programme 1: Administration

Strategic objective: Provide adequate and effective corporate services functions in pursuit of good governance.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Unqualified audit opinion obtained
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Indicator aims to ensure that department receives unqualified audit opinion on the annual reports submitted to the AGSA
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	To implement and achieve good governance practices within the organisation
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Outputs
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Unqualified audit opinion by the AGSA
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Unqualified audit opinion in the audit report
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	AFS, HR reports and performances information submitted by the relevant units within Corporate Services
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Annually
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Branch: Corporate Services
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Directors: SPPMR, Finance, HRM, HRD
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Chief Directors: SM and HR, CFO
Means of verification (evidence).	Annual Report and Audit Report from the office of the AGSA
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	None
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Deputy Director-General: Corporate Services

Programme Performance Indicators

Subprogramme 1.1: Strategic Management

1.1.1 Strategic management processes and procedures implemented.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Strategic management processes and procedures implemented
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The strategic management processes implemented in accordance with departmental policies and approved department's and National Treasury frameworks. This entails implementation of strategic and annual performance planning, performance monitoring and reporting as well as risk management processes.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	The indicator is intended to demonstrate compliance with the DPME's national planning, performance monitoring and reporting processes, as well as risk management in line with National Treasury's Framework for Risk Management in the public sector. It is important because they break down the department's vision, mission, goals and objectives into implementable targets and indicators and into risk registers, guided by GCIS's Risk Management Framework. It also indicates how the organisation is going to deliver on its mandate and government priorities as indicated in the MTSF.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Outputs
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Annual and quarterly progress reports on performance information, and risk mitigation plans approved and submitted to relevant oversight bodies. Strategic Plan and APP tabled in Parliament
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	The process entails the approval of the documents (APP and strategic plans, quarterly and annual performance reports and risk registers and risk mitigation reports) by the GCIS Manco.
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Data comes from budget programme managers and through the Organisational Performance Management System whereby they submit inputs on programme performance information (indicators and targets) against predetermined objectives and risk treatment plans.

Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Tracks the communication research reports produced for the communication clusters
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Public perceptions and expectations relevant to the work of each of the communication clusters in order to enhance effective communication by government
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Outputs
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of the actual reports produced and presented at Manco
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Research datasets – tracker, national qualitative research, GPB, SPT, Markinor syndicate buy-in, ad hoc research projects and other research findings obtained
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Research and Knowledge Management.
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Research and Knowledge Management.
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Research and Knowledge Management.
Means of verification (evidence).	Actual cluster reports produced and proof of submission to Manco
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Delayed availability of datasets
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Research and Knowledge Management.

2.2.2 Number of Pulse of the Nation reports produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of Pulse of the Nation reports produced
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The report details the mood of the nation, public perceptions and expectations regarding government performance and communication and used as input towards the development of communication strategies in order to enhance effective communication by government.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Use of Pulse of the Nation communication research report to improve government communication strategy, implementation and impact.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Producing the report and submitting to the GCIS Manco biannually
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of two reports produced per year and submitted to Manco.
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Research datasets – tracker, national qualitative research, GPB, SPT, Markinor syndicate buy-in, ad hoc research projects and other research findings obtained
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Biannually
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Research and Knowledge Management
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Service providers appointed following appropriate procurement processes, staff from Directorate: Research and Knowledge Management
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Research and Knowledge Management
Means of verification (evidence).	Pulse of the Nation research reports produced. Proof of submission to the GCIS Manco.
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Delayed availability of datasets
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Research and Knowledge Management

2.2.3 Number of reports on government communication monitoring and evaluation produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of reports on the monitoring and evaluation of the government communication produced
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Quarterly reports to be shared with Manco on communication monitoring and evaluation of government communications
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	To keep Manco updated on communication monitoring and evaluation work done by the directorate
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Two reports on government communications monitoring and reporting to be produced and shared with Manco
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of two reports produced and shared with Manco
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Information comes from various communication units in government
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Biannually
DATA COLLECTION
Describe the original written source of data	From GCIS units and is submitted electronically
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Government Communication Monitoring and Evaluation (GCME)
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Assistant Director: GCME
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: GCME
Means of verification (evidence)	Actual reports produced
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Late submissions from departments and non-reporting of project information
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: GCME

2.2.4 Number of media content analysis reports produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of media content analysis reports produced
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Biannual reports of qualitative and quantitative analysis of media coverage of government based on government priorities. The selected priority area is Economy.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	To provide insights into how the media reports on Economy as a government priority
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Two media content analysis reports produced
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of two reports produced
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Information comes from the analysis of data captured from reports in the media
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Biannually
DATA COLLECTION
Describe the original written source of data	Media reports
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: GCME
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Deputy Director: GCME
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: GCME
Means of verification (evidence)	Actual reports produced
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Performance of the media database is impacted when the Internet is slow
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: GCME

2.2.5 A publication of the Media Landscape produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	A publication of the Media Landscape produced
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	An overall retrospective assessment of the media landscape for the entire financial year. Different writers who work within the media environment contribute chapters that bring on developments and dialogues from within this ever-changing and complex media environment.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	To give public communicators, academics, students and journalists an annual overview on the media landscape (environment)
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the 2014/15 financial year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Producing the publication of an assessment of the media landscape on time, with improved contents and layout
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	A simple count of one publication produced
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	From different writers who work within the media environment contribute chapters that bring different perspectives on the media environment.
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Every three years
DATA COLLECTION
Describe the original written source of data	Chapters from identified expert writers
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: GCME
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Project Manager: Media Landscape
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: GCME
Means of verification (evidence)	A copy of the Media Landscape publication
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Late submissions of chapters by contributors and unavailability of writers
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: GCME

2.2.6 Number of Insight newsletters published.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of Insight newsletter published
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Focuses on the number of Insight newsletters published and shared with GCIS staff and national government communicators.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Tracks the number of Insight newsletters published
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Achievement of the target as planned
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all Insight newsletters published on the GCIS website
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Research results and media reports on a range of government's programmes, initiatives and policies
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Communication Resource Centre (CRC)
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: CRC
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Directorate: CRC
Means of verification (evidence)	Insight newsletter and the GCIS website link: (www.gcis.gov.za/content/resourcecentre/newsletters-magazines/insight)
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Delay in sourcing content for the Insight newsletters
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: CRC

2.2.7 Percentage of key messages produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Percentage of key messages produced. (excluding weekends, public holidays and holiday periods)
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Key messages are statements that succinctly communicate government's stance on issues affecting it and the country. Key messages extract prominent aspects of a government programme, issue or report and are used to contribute to consistency in government communication.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	It contributes to consistency in government communication on issues, events or developments that affect government and the country.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	A total of 100% of key messages requests produced
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Number of key messages request against the number of key messages produced to draw a percentage
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Background, supporting and briefing documents, including complementary desktop research inform the key messages
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: CRC
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Deputy Directors in the CRC
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: CRC
Means of verification (evidence)	Spreadsheet of the number of key messages requests and key messages produced
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Insufficient supporting documentation supplied and human error in the capturing of information on the spreadsheet.
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: CRC

2.2.8 Percentage of opinion pieces produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Percentage of opinion pieces produced (excluding weekends, public holidays and holiday periods)
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Opinion pieces convey government's view on topical issues in the media environment that affect it and the country
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Ensures the prominence of government's voice on topical issues in the media environment
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	A percentage of opinion pieces produced
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Requests for opinion pieces coming from (DDG, Chief Director, Director, Content Hub and Rapid Response) calculated against the opinion pieces produced to determine the percentage achieved.
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Background, supporting and briefing documents, including desktop research
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: CRC
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Deputy Directors in the CRC
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: CRC
Means of verification (evidence)	Register of opinion pieces and opinion pieces produced and proof of sending to the client
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Insufficient information to draft opinion pieces
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: CRC

Subprogramme 2.3 : Communication Service Agency

Strategic Objective: Provide efficient and effective communication services

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of communication services provided
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Measures the extent to which the GCIS has been able to provide communication services to government departments and institutions. The services are media buying and media production.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	The indicator will state the number of services that the CSA has provided to clients in terms of media buying and media production.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	The indicator measures outputs and activities.
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	2070 communication services, which is the set target
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	This indicator is calculated by adding up all communication services provided by each directorate within the CSA
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	The information is reported monthly and quarterly by each directorate
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Annually
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Production Directorate: Media Buying
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	All Directors
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Chief Director: CSA
Means of verification (evidence).	Media Production: Spreadsheet of completed products and services offered Media buying: Spreadsheet of approved campaigns and proof of flighting
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Possible under-reporting by some units due to delays in the submission of proofs and invoices. Human error in capturing process leading to duplications.
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	The Chief Director: CSA

Programme Performance Indicators

2.3.1 Number of approved media buying campaigns implemented.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of approved media buying campaigns implemented
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Implementation of the media bulk-buying component of multimedia communication campaigns on behalf of national government institutions involving the procurement of advertising space in the media
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Measures the extent to which centralised media bulk-buying is being implemented by the GCIS
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Outputs
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	To implement targeted campaigns as planned. (250 campaigns.)
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of number of campaign requests approved and implemented
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	A register of all campaigns briefed in to the GCIS is kept. The information comes as request from client departments but mostly emails.
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Buying
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Media Buying
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Media Buying
Means of verification (evidence).	Spreadsheet of all requests received Proof of placement and flighting for all media-buying campaigns
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Human error in capturing data
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media buying

2.3.2 Number of photographic services provided.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of photographic services provided
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The photographic coverage of events for the GCIS, the Presidency and other government departments
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Measures the demand for photographs from the GCIS and gives an indication to the value that is placed on this service.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Activity
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Slightly changed from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Implement all approved requests for photographic services
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all approved requests implemented.
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Requests for photographic products and services from The Presidency, the GCIS and other government departments are recorded and weekly report from both the Photographic and Support Services units.
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Production
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Media Production
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Media Production
Means of verification (evidence).	Spreadsheet of all requests received Evidence of requests implemented as GCIS approved
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Possible under-reporting by the Video Unit
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media Production

2.3.3 Number of video services provided.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of video services provided
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Video filming of public engagements of the President and the Deputy President, the GCIS and government for use by the GCIS and other government departments. Video filming for the production of adverts and video programmes showcasing the work done by The President and the Deputy President. Providing video coverage of important government events such as National Days and the production of adverts for multimedia communication campaigns implemented by the GCIS.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Measures the extent to which the GCIS has been able to provide video documentation services to The Presidency and other government departments.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output and Outcome 14
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Slightly changed from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Implement all approved of requests for video services
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all approved requests
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Requests for radio products and services, comes from The Presidency, GCIS and other government departments and are recorded and a weekly report from the video unit
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Production
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Media Production
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Media Production
Means of verification (evidence).	Spreadsheet of all requests received Evidence of requests implemented as GCIS approved
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Possible under-reporting by the video unit
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media Production

2.3.4 Number of radio products and services provided.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of radio products and services provided
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Production of radio adverts for use in government multimedia communication campaigns.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Measures the extent to which GCIS is able to produce radio adverts for media buying campaigns which it implements and further measures how often GCIS is able to provide a platform for government to have unmediated communication with community radio listeners.
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Activity
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Achievement of targeted performance as planned
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all approved requests implemented
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Requests for radio products and services from The Presidency, GCIS and other government departments are recorded and a weekly report from the Radio Unit.
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Production
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Media Production
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Media Production
Means of verification (evidence).	Spreadsheet of all requests received. Evidence of requests implemented as GCIS approved.
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Possible under-reporting by the Radio Unit.
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media Production

2.3.5 Number of graphic designs completed.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of graphic designs completed
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The layout and graphic design of GCIS print products, they layout and design of marketing collateral and advertising material and electronic publications
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Measures the extent to which GCIS is able to provide a graphic design service for its clients
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Activity
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Achievement of targeted performance as planned
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all approved requests implemented
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Request for design received from GCIS and other government departments are recorded and a weekly report from the Design unit
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Production
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Director: Media Production
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Media Production
Means of verification (evidence).	Spreadsheet of all requests received. Evidence of requests implemented as GCIS-approved
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Possible under-reporting by the Design Unit
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media Production

2.3.6 Percentage of approved marketing services requests implemented.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Percentage of approved marketing services requests implemented
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Register in excel format (Marketing register) Marketing services can include a marketing project e.g golf day or event e.g PSM Forum or a request for branding e.g pull-up banners for an event or request for or event support e.g exhibition table, production of branded products, registration table or sponsorship. It can also include a request to develop a Marketing Strategy, Plan or Memo for unit.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	To communicate the value of a product, service or brand to customers for the purpose of promoting that products and service, of the GCIS
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	100% of approved marketing services activities implemented
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Number of marketing services requested against the number of marketing services requests implemented
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Collected via an email request or briefing form completed by the client
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Monthly, quarterly and annually
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Marketing and Distribution
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Senior Secretary: Marketing and Distribution
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Marketing and Distribution
Means of verification (evidence).	Marketing Register and approved marketing services forms, proof by means of photographs etc.
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Human error in compiling the manual excel sheet
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Marketing and Distribution

2.3.7 Number of GCIS print products distributed.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of GCIS print products distributed
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	Distribution of print and electronic products produced by the GCIS. These products are Vuk'uzenzele newspaper, Pocket Guide to South Africa and the Annual Report
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	Key flagship project of the organisation to be distributed to target audiences
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Continues without change from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	23 editions of Vuk'uzenzele and one edition of the Pocket Guide to South Africa and the Annual Report
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of number of products distributed.
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	The data comes from the distribution strategy and request for distribution services by other units
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Marketing and Distribution
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Secretary: Distribution
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Deputy Director: Marketing and Distribution
Means of verification (evidence).	Proof of deliveries and service providers' invoice
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Late submission of invoices and proof of delivery by service providers, which might result in reporting on a number without the evidence being immediately available
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Marketing and Distribution

Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	The performance is cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Media Engagement
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Assistant Director
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Deputy Directors and subsequently the Director for reporting
Means of verification (evidence).	Post-Cabinet statements or media briefing attendance register
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	None
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Media Engagement

3.1.3 Number of biweekly Rapid Response reports produced.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of biweekly Rapid Response reports produced
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The indicator includes an executive summary, a grid with a list of stories discussed at Rapid Response with interventions and progress
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	It is intended to brief the Ministry about issues relating to government that were in the media and the interventions made thereof to mitigate negative reporting
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Slight changed from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	All 24 biweekly rapid response reports produced
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple count of all the reports produced and submitted to the Ministry
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	Media platforms (newspapers, online, broadcast). Monitoring, selection and compilation of media content for Manco's report
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Directorate: Rapid Response
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Deputy Directors/ASD
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Director: Rapid Response
Means of verification (evidence).	Biweekly Rapid Response reports produced. Register from DGs office to the Ministry
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	One report will be produced for December and January due to festive season
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Director: Rapid Response

Subprogramme 3.2: Cluster Communication

Strategic Objective: Improve interdepartmental coordination by joint planning and sharing of messages across the three spheres of government to ensure coherence and alignment of government messages

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of strategic engagements with government communicators held

Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Non-cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly and annually
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Chief Directorates: Cluster Communications
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Directors: Cluster Communications
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Directors: Cluster Communications
Means of verification (evidence).	Minutes and/or attendance register of the engagement
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Cancellation of the planned forums; or unavailability of key stakeholders
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Chief Directors: Cluster support

3.2.1 Number of Cluster Communication Plans (CCPs) developed.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of CCPs developed
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.	The Cluster Communication plans are based on the five-year NCSF and Government's PoA. The CCPs are developed annually aligned to the Cluster Communication Programme. During the year the unit coordinates implementation of various CCPs, including inputs and resources for campaigns and projects, as well as communication strategies and content harvesting.
Purpose/importance: Explains what the indicator is intended to show and why it is important.	CCPs are developed for clusters and will guide implementation of communications throughout the year
Type of indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is measuring inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes or impact, or some other dimension of performance such as efficiency, economy or equity.	Output
New indicator: Identifies whether the indicator is new, has significantly changed, or continues without change from the previous year.	Has slightly from the previous year
Desired performance: Identifies whether actual performance that is higher or lower than targeted performance is desirable.	Five CCPs developed
CALCULATION AND REPORTING
Method of calculation: Describes clearly and specifically how the indicator is calculated.	Simple account of five CCPs developed
Source/collection of data: Describes where the information comes from and how it is collected.	NDP, MTSF and cluster outcomes
Calculation type: Identifies whether the reported performance is cumulative or non-cumulative.	Cumulative
Reporting cycle/schedule: Identifies if an indicator is reported quarterly, annually or at longer time intervals.	Quarterly
DATA COLLECTION
Which branch/or directorate/unit is responsible for providing the template which requests the information?	Chief Directorates: Cluster Communication
Who is responsible for collecting the data?	Directors: Cluster Support
Who is responsible for checking and verifying the data captured?	Chief Directors: Cluster Communication
Means of verification (evidence).	Cluster Communication Plans developed and presented to the respective DGs clusters
Data limitations: Identifies any limitation with the indicator data, including factors that might be beyond the department's control.	Delay in approval of the Cluster Communication Programmes
INDICATOR RESPONSIBILITY
Indicator owner: Identifies who is responsible for managing and reporting the indicator.	Chief Directors: Cluster Communication

3.2.2 Number of reports on the implementation of CCPs.

GENERAL INDICATOR INFORMATION	RESPONSE
Indicator title: Identifies the title of the strategic-oriented goal, objective or programme performance indicator.	Number of reports on the implementation of CCPs
Short definition: Provides a brief explanation of what the indicator is, with enough detail to give a general understanding of the indicator.
