The Information Resource Centre of GCIS conducted an outreach event for Freedom Month at Soshanguve Crossing Mall on 26 April 2018. The aim of the activation was to market and promote GCIS services and distribute information products by GCIS and other government departments, and these included Freedom Month messages.

Mmathapelo Ntshwe said:

“According to me freedom is living a better life. Unlike during the times of apartheid, we are now free to walk and shop at different malls, ride all types of public transport together regardless of race or colour.”

Margaret Morifi said:

“Ten years ago I was heading an orphanage here in Soshanguve and now a certain church is in charge of that orphanage because funds prevented me to operate it further. My plea to government or any other institution is to help me get back the orphanage because it belongs to my heart.”
