1. PART ONE: INTRODUCTION AND CORPORATE STRATEGY 2010 2013

1.1 INTRODUCTION

The breadth and complexity of government's developmental agenda and the need to constantly focus public opinion and sentiment on the progress the country is making in creating a better life for all is possible only through agile and well-coordinated communication.

Our work is focused on providing strategic guidance and ensuring communication of the country's vision by communicating progress on visible and tangible implementation of government programmes at home and abroad. To achieve maximum communication on our developmental priorities, the Government Communication and Information System (GCIS) has to ensure functioning and effective communication systems in all spheres of government.

During the Medium Term Expenditure Framework, the GCIS will play a leading role together with the International Marketing Council (IMC) and the 17 departments with the World Cup guarantees to profile the opportunities of our country's hosting of the 2010 FIFA World Cup™.

Overall, the GCIS is responsible for providing strategic leadership to and coordinating a government communication system that ensures that the South African public as well as the international community are informed about government's policies, plans and programmes.

Furthermore, the GCIS ensures that South Africa is marketed abroad through the IMC to assess perceptions with both positive and negative impact on the country's potential to attract greater levels of tourism, trade and investment.

The GCIS oversees the Media Development and Diversity Agency (MDDA), whose mandate it is to ensure the development of media diversity in the country, as part of strengthening democracy.

The GCIS will, during this electoral period, place special emphasis on ensuring that all departments have functioning communication units whose function it is to sustain communication on the programmes meant to develop the country and its people.

The success of the government-wide communication system is dependent on strong and well-resourced communication units across departments.

The Strategic Plan for 2010 to 2013 is in line with the revised government priorities with the outcomes approach to the programmes of government.

Review of the GCIS' work in the past nine months of the new administration

The GCIS has made strides in implementing its renewed mandate informed by the government-wide and GCIS review in the financial year 2009/10. The training of ministers on handling the media took place, better planning for communication was emphasised and the communication cycle was reviewed and implemented.

The GCIS is currently engaging with the Public Administration Leadership and Management Academy to develop a government communication qualification.

This will ensure that the system acquires and maintains a trained cadre of communicators. The detailed Corporate Strategy and objectives are outlined below.

1.2 CORPORATE STRATEGY 2010 – 2013

1. Overview of GCIS' strategic focus over the Medium Term Strategic Framework (MTSF) period

- 1.1 The GCIS is primarily responsible for providing strategic leadership in communication and coordinating a government communication system that ensures that the public is informed and have access to government programmes and policies that benefit them.
- 1.2 The GCIS, through the National Communication Strategy Framework (NCSF), continues to ensure that the mandate of government is communicated to the South African population.
- 1.3 The GCIS is also expected to build partnerships informed by an encompassing vision around common development objectives. Furthermore, the GCIS leads the international marketing of the country and provides overall guidance, ensuring that the country is marketed abroad, and promotes media diversity through the IMC and the MDDA, respectively.
- 1.4 Greater emphasis in the first year of the Medium Term Expenditure Framework (MTEF) 2010 – 2013 and MTSF 2009 – 2014 will be on providing communication on mandated targets for the fulfilment of the millennium development goals, as expressed in the mandate of the new administration.
- 1.5 In the short term, GCIS will lead and anchor communication on the preparations for the 2010 World Cup, a prestigious tournament that will leave a lasting legacy in our country. Communication priorities are being informed by the MTSF, derived from the electoral mandate of the new government administration, which will constitute the bases for the Programme of Action (PoA).
- 1.6 The priorities for communication are to be outlined in the PoA. These include continuing to build an economy that creates jobs, addresses the education challenges and focuses on rural development and sustainable livelihoods.
- 1.7 More attention will be paid to building communication partnerships to promote a better life – understood, witnessed, believed and lived by all South Africans.

2. Vision

Government communication that empowers and encourages the public to participate in democracy and improve the lives of all.

3. Mission

Lead the strategic communication of government, ensure coherence of message and open and extend channels of communication between government and the people, towards a shared vision.

4. Key objective and strategies

STRATEGIC OBJECTIVE:

Continuously communicate with and inform the public on the policies and programmes of government to improve their lives.

This overarching objective will be supported by the following strategic objectives:

4.1 Provide strategic leadership in government communication

- 4.1.1 Develop a NCSF that will inform and drive communication priorities linked with the electoral mandate and based on the MTSF.
- 4.1.2 Provide strategic leadership in the development and implementation of effective departmental and provincial communication strategies that are aligned to the NCSF and driven by the priorities of government's PoA.

4.2 Strengthen and manage the government-wide communication system for effectiveness and proper alignment

- 4.2.1 Pay increased attention to the development of communication systems in all spheres of government and ensure that the communication policy guidelines and scorecard are popularised and implemented.
- 4.2.2 Promote a learning communication system by developing an integrated knowledge and information management system.
- 4.2.3 Enhance existing coordinating forums by using them, for among other things, as strategic planning forums.
- 4.2.4 Induct and guide the establishment of communication units across government.
- 4.2.5 Develop and implement a training programme to address communication skills in government.

4.3 Learn and explore communication methods and practices to enhance communication

- 4.3.1 Conduct communication research and surveys to explore new communication needs and understand the communication landscape.
- 4.3.2 Effective use of research to improve communication focus and understand the communication needs of the public.
- 4.3.3 Explore new platforms for communication and the impact of communication products and services in terms of access and reach.
- 4.3.4 Develop and effectively use government communication products and services to better meet government and public information needs.
- 4.3.5 Promote the use of new media and technology to effectively convey government information.

4.4 Lead and guide the domestic and international marketing of South Africa

- 4.4.1 Guide the IMC in the development of the country brand in line with the Government's vision.
- 4.4.2 Build consensus among key stakeholders in support of the country's marketing initiative.

4.5 Build partnerships with strategic stakeholders in pursuit of GCIS' vision

- 4.5.1 Build and sustain networks and strategic partnerships to enhance and support effective communication of government policies and programmes.
- 4.5.2 Support the implementation of government-wide access to information.
- 4.5.3 Build and strengthen relations with the media to effectively communicate government messages.
- 4.5.4 Espouse a development-communication approach to strengthen participatory democracy in pursuit of government's developmental agenda.

4.6 Operate an efficient, effective and compliant government communication organisation

- 4.6.1 Implement a Human Resource Strategy to realise the mandate of GCIS.
- 4.6.2 Implement a focused project-management discipline and adhere to best practices for internal and government-wide campaigns and projects.
- 4.6.3 Ensure implementation of effective strategic business planning and performance monitoring, in line with the relevant legislation.
- 4.6.4 Ensure effective and efficient use of information and communications technologies.
- 4.6.5 Provide an efficient and effective oversight role to the public entities.
- 4.6.6 Promote a learning organisation by developing an integrated knowledge and information management system.

5. The Programme of Action for the Medium Term Strategic Plan for the electoral period 2009 – 2014

5.1. Communication will be informed by the measurable outcomes based on the eight priorities in the PoA outlined in the State of the Nation Address and supported by the budget allocations. These priorities are a critical path in the county's growth and development:

- education
- health
- rural development and land reform
- creating decent work
- fighting crime
- local governance and human development
- infrastructure
- building a better Africa and a better world.

5.2 Each priority will have a clear measurable outcome and target. It is envisaged that each cluster or sector will ensure a communication programme informed by the various milestones of each measurable outcome.

Programme 2: Policy and Research

Purpose: Policy and Research conducts research to assess how government informs the public and people's communication needs and monitors media coverage of government's programmes from a communication perspective.

Objectives and measures

Effective use of research and analysis to understand the communication needs of the public and the communication landscape on a weekly, monthly and quarterly basis and thereby improve the communication focus, explore new platforms and inform government's communication strategy.

Develop and implement a training programme to address the skills of government communicators.

Sub-programmes and their functions:

- Policy and Media Analysis monitors and analyses how the media interprets government policies and programmes. The unit delivers a weekly communication environment report to management, which enables the GCIS management to make communication decisions from an informed basis.
- Research enhances government communication through ongoing assessment of the information and communication needs of government and the public.
- Inclusive Economy Communication manages communication aimed at popularising economic opportunities created by government.

Programme 3: Government and Media Liaison

Government and Media Liaison promotes integration of communication plans and assesses the implementation of the plans by both departments and clusters; and ensures that the coordinating forums are effective and provide strategic leadership to departments in the development of departmental and provincial communication strategies informed by the National Communication Strategy Framework. It ensures that communication policy guidelines are used to improve government communication.

The programme also aims to ensure that the media is continuously informed of government's programmes and provides comprehensive and coherent media and government liaison services.

Its activities are grouped into the following five Sub-programmes:

- Management is responsible for overall leadership, management and planning of the programme's activities.
- National Liaison promotes interdepartmental cooperation and integration of communication and assists departments to develop effective communication strategies. It manages the implementation of the respective departments' communication plans and convenes communication forums to encourage integrated planning and coordination of government's communication programmes.
- International and Media Liaison is responsible for ongoing media liaison services to government and maintains relations with both domestic and international media. It also coordinates external communication in collaboration with national departments and other stakeholders. The unit has to identify and cultivate relationships with media houses, both domestic and foreign.
- The News Service (BuaNews) provides government news and information to community and mainstream media, locally and abroad.
- Parliamentary Liaison renders media liaison and communication services to government in the parliamentary precinct and provides government information to Members of Parliament (MPs) and the public through its Information Resource Centre (IRC).

Programme 5: Communication Service Agency (CSA)

Purpose: The CSA provides core communication services to GCIS and other government departments, both in-house and through outsourcing.

Objectives and measures

Provide the public with knowledge and information about government by:

- producing 45 000 copies of the SA Yearbook (SAYB), 20 000 copies of the Pocket Guide to South Africa and 4 000 copies of the Yearbook CD ROM per year
- implementing a minimum of 130 media bulk-buying briefs a year
- conducting six public relations and marketing campaigns a year.
- Improve and develop content for government communication campaigns by producing radio advertisements or radio dramas, live broadcasts on community radio stations, and video programmes and advertisements; covering events (video and photographs); and responding to graphic design requests.

Sub-programmes and their functions

Marketing manages government's corporate identity (CI); develops strategies for marketing campaigns, events management, public relations campaigns and advertising; manages a government distribution network; and provides a media bulk-buying service.

Product Development develops broadcast strategies and products for government campaigns and projects; produces videos and radio programmes; does graphic design, layout and exhibition design; and provides photographic services for national and provincial departments.

Content Development identifies government's communication needs, determines the public's information needs, develops content for individual and transversal campaigns, provides editorial services and produces the SAYB and Pocket Guide to South Africa.

Programme 6: International Marketing and Media Development

Purpose: Market South Africa internationally and promote local media development and diversity.

Sub-programmes and their functions

The two GCIS public entities – the IMC and the MDDA – have the following primary functions:

- the IMC markets South Africa internationally
- the MDDA promotes local media development and diversity.

Both entities prepare and table their strategic plans in Parliament separately and are managed by the GCIS as the responsible department through accountability arrangements (frameworks) developed and approved by the executive authority and the public entities' accounting authorities.

Programme 7: Government Publication

Purpose: Create a communication vehicle that provides the public with information on economic and other opportunities and how these can be accessed.

Objectives and measures

Improve unmediated and direct communication by government to the public by:

- maintaining the bimonthly print run of Vuk'uzenzele magazine from 1,5 million to 1,6 million
- ensuring the bimonthly update of the electronic version on an ongoing basis
- disseminating the Braille version to organisations for the visually impaired and to visually impaired individuals on an ongoing basis.

Programme 8: Communication Resource Centre (CRC)

The CRC formed part of the IMC since the organisation's inception in 2002. Based on a review of the IMC and its operations that was conducted during 2008, it was decided that the CRC be incorporated into the GCIS. This came into effect on 1 April 2009. The CRC is mainly responsible for tracking international media coverage on South Africa through daily monitoring and analysis. This enables the CRC to identify key issues and trends in media coverage.

It co-manages, with the GCIS' Directorate: International and Media Liaison, a daily rapid response discussion on key issues in the local and international media environment to ensure that government is kept abreast of these and is able to intervene where required.

The CRC also produces regular analytical reports that identify key issues and trends per government cluster or other sectors and contributes regularly to communication strategy and communication content development.

Purpose: The CRC's main purpose is to monitor and analyse international media coverage on the country as part of the GCIS' leadership in the strategic communication of government.

Expenditure trends

Between 2006/07 and 2009/10, expenditure increased from R293,1 million to R496,8 million, at an average annual rate of 19,2%. This was due mainly to funds devolved from the Department of Public Works for office accommodation, departmental activities in preparation for the 2010 FIFA World Cup™, government's initiatives in the Second Economy (now Inclusive Economy), additional capacity at provincial offices and the increase in transfer to the International Marketing Council (IMC) for the 2010 World Cup.

A significant part of the department's expenditure is made up of transfer payments to the IMC and the Media Development and Diversity Agency (MDDA). The transfers constitute on average 34% of total expenditure between 2006/07 and 2009/10.

Over the MTEF period, the expenditure is expected to increase marginally to R515,4 million at an average annual rate of 1,2% mainly due to an increase in communication programmes. A further R20 million is allocated over the MTEF period for communication programmes on the news and business channel, Channel Africa.

The department's establishment increased steadily between 2006/07 and 2009/10. Over the MTEF period, the personnel will also remain stable –, between 400 to 520 posts. The Communication Resource Centre (CRC), which was part of the IMC was incorporated into the GCIS with effect from 1 April 2009, increasing the establishment with additional nine officials. The department will receive R4,5 million in 2010/11, R5,3 million in 2011/12 and R5,7 million in 2012/13 as additional funds to cover salary adjustments. The department did not receive any funds to cover additional personnel when a submission was made during the MTEF process. The department will continue with the current establishment and continue to provide the South Africa public with information. The department, even though it has revised its priorities for the next three, years will work within the available establishment to ensure that service delivery is not hampered.

Expenditure trends

Total expenditure for this programme increased from R70,9 million in 2006/07 to R114,4 million in 2009/10 at an average annual rate of 17,3%, mainly due to rentals of Thusong service centres.

Over the medium term, expenditure is estimated to increase to R136,2 million at an annual average rate of 6% due to the higher than expected salary increases. Expenditure on the Office Accommodation Sub-programme is expected to increase in 2011/12 due to once-off expenditure for the new head office start-up.

Programme 2: Policy and Research

Purpose: Conduct communication research as well as monitoring and analysis of media coverage of government policies and programmes to contribute towards more effective government communication.

Expenditure trends

Expenditure increased substantially from R12,1 million in 2006/07 to R19 million in 2009/10, at an average annual rate of 16,3%, mainly due to second-economy initiatives.

Expenditure is expected to decrease to R16,9 million at an average annual rate of 3,9% over the MTEF period due to discontinuation of second-economy initiatives.

Programme 3: Government and Media Liaison

Purpose: Coordinate effective, integrated and comprehensive communication and media liaison services across government.

Expenditure trends

Total expenditure on this programme increased significantly at an average annual rate of 19,6%, from R16,6 million in 2006/07 to R28,3 million in 2009/10. This was mainly due to inflation-related increases. Expenditure is expected to increase over the MTEF period to R35,2 million at an average annual rate of 7,5% due to an inflation adjustment, South African Press Association (Sapa) prescription costs, the Public Participation Programme, media briefings on government action and BuaNews. Spending over the MTEF period will focus on Sapa subscription costs, communicators' forums, media briefings, BuaNews and hosting the annual Government Communicators' Awards event.

Programme 4: Provincial Coordination and Programme Support

Purpose: Promote development communication, strengthen and support the government communication and information system in all spheres of government together with communication units in the offices of premiers, metropolitans and district municipalities and create awareness and promote Thusong service centres as points of access to services and information.

Expenditure trends

Expenditure increased at an average rate of 14,4% from R38,8 million in 2006/07 to R58,1 million in 2009/10, mainly due to operational costs such as travel and subsistence and inventory at provincial offices. Expenditure is estimated to increase over the medium term to R69,1 million at an average annual rate of 5,9%. The increase is to cater for the higher than expected salary adjustments. The focus over the MTEF period will be on public communication interventions, including travelling to outlying districts.

Programme 5: Communication Service Agency

Purpose: Provide core communication services to GCIS and other government departments, both in-house and through outsourcing.

Expenditure trends

Expenditure increased from R32,7 million in 2006/07 to R60,7 million in 2009/10 at an average annual rate of 23%. This is mainly due to the increased dissemination of information on government's Programme of Action and on the Energy Efficiency Campaign.

Expenditure trends

The IMC receives its funding mainly from the department. Funding increased from R83,4 million in 2006/07 to R161,4 million in 2009/10, at an average annual rate of 24,6%. This was mainly due to accommodate 2010 FIFA World Cup™ marketing activities. Over the medium term, expenditure is expected to increase from R161,4 million in 2009/10 to R148,8 million in 2012/13 at an average annual rate of 2,7% due to completion of 2010 World Cup marketing activities in 2010/11. The spending focus over the MTEF period will be on promoting local media development and marketing activities.

The MDDA promotes local media development and diversity. The agency is funded through a transfer at the beginning of each financial year. The funds are used to support the agency's mandate of ensuring that disadvantaged communities and individuals gain access to the media.

The allocation to the Media and Development Sub-programme increased from R9,6 million in 2006/07 to R16,6 million in 2009/10, at an average annual rate of 19,9%. This is due to new posts and higher overall administrative costs.

Programme 7: Government Publication

Purpose: Produce a magazine that provides citizens with information on economic and other opportunities created by government and how these can be accessed.

Expenditure trends

Total expenditure for this programme is projected to grow from R29 million to R39,4 million over the seven-year MTEF period, at an average annual rate of 5,2%. A significant part of this increase is due to inflation-related salary adjustments.

Programme 8: Communication Resource Centre

Purpose: Monitor and analyse international media coverage of the country as part of the GCIS' leadership in the strategic communication of government.

Expenditure trends

The CRC programme was incorporated into the department in April 2009. Expenditure over the medium term is expected to increase marginally over the MTEF period to reach R6,6 million. The increase is due to inflation-related salary adjustments. Over the medium term, the spending focus will be on capacity development and the higher than anticipated salary adjustments.

4. ANNEXURE II: SERVICE-DELIVERY IMPROVEMENT PLAN (SDIP)

4.1 GCIS: SDIP

Period: April 2010 to March 2011

Preamble:

GCIS' primary role is to provide assistance to other government departments by facilitating effective government communication through:

- largely developing, and in certain instances, implementing government communication strategies for campaigns and projects as well as producing and disseminating information products
- coordinating government-wide media bulk-buying
- conducting research and providing research advisory services
- media monitoring and analysis
- coordinating government's communication coordinating structures to ensure coherence and integrated communication by government with the public.

All of the above, from an SDIP point of view, are seen as largely internal rather than directly benefiting the public at large – hence are not included under key services below.

5. ANNEXURE III: INFORMATION MANAGEMENT AND TECHNOLOGY PLANS

	Medium-term expenditure estimate
	2010/11	2011/12	2012/13
Total		17 190 000	16 561 000

Most of the budget will be used to continue providing Wide Area Network (WAN) services, access to transversal systems and Web infrastructure and hosting services through the State Information and Technology Agency (Sita). Roll-out of third-generation (3G) mobile connectivity into the GCIS Virtual Private Network (VPN) will continue, allowing access to mobile users and remote users in the rural areas. The WAN equipment will be upgraded in the medium term to refresh the technology as it reaches its end-of-life cycle.

Continuous implementation of security measures in line with industry trends and developments will be done. End-of-life cycle refreshments will be undertaken for file, data and application servers where necessary. Enhancements to the disaster recovery plan for IT continuity will be made and reviews will continue to assess changing needs.

In-house systems development will continue to cater for the needs of the sections in GCIS and implement the recommendations of the GCIS Information Systems Review. An initiative will be started to document all the processes in GCIS.

The Enterprise Content Management System will be further enhanced to automate the requisition process and extend the use of the system for electronic records management.

The GCIS Web infrastructure, which hosts the Government Information and GCIS websites, will be maintained and end-of-life cycle replacements will be done for hardware and software. The consolidation of the GCIS web infrastructure with that of the Government Services Website at Sita will be investigated and security measures will continuously be attended to. The Services Website and Content Management system (CMS) will be migrated to an open-source platform.

Implementation of new and improvement of current CMSs for the websites maintained by GCIS will be done. The Government Online and GCIS websites will be reviewed and improved. Attention will be given to comprehensiveness of content, content architecture and navigation, and page layout enhancements, while Web-based social media will be implemented where relevant. Support and advice on web content issues will be provided to other GCIS units and government departments.
