1. BACKGROUND

- 1.1 The GCIS (hereinafter referred to as 'the department') is mandated to lead strategic communication of government and to ensure the coherence of messages, as well as open and extend channels of communication between government and the people. GCIS also must ensure that the public is informed of the Government's implementation of its mandate.
- 1.2 One of the functions of the Directorate: Research Services is to "commission research through surveys to evaluate ongoing government performance and to solicit the views of the public on matters of concern".
- 1.3 The GCIS developed a Government Segmentation Model (GSM) to enhance communicators' understanding of citizens and to foster greater alignment between citizen needs and government services and messaging.
- 1.4 The GSM enables the government to gain deeper insights into the citizens it serves, encompassing their demographic profiles as well as their perceptions, beliefs, and values regarding government service delivery.
- 1.5 To fulfil its research mandate, GCIS needs to appoint a panel of expert statisticians for designing a frame and drawing samples, developing methodologies for weighting, applying of the weights to the dataset, and advanced statistical analysis. The statistical accuracy of all samples drawn for research purposes is critical because findings from the surveys are often used to inform decisions of the government in policy, programme, and campaign implementation.

2. OBJECTIVES

- 2.1 The objective of the RFB is to appoint a panel of expert statisticians. The appointed panel will provide the GCIS with specialised services on an ad hoc basis. These services include designing sampling frames and drawing samples for surveys; developing methodologies for weighting data and applying these weights to datasets; and conducting advanced statistical analysis for both large- and small-scale research projects. These services will be provided to the GCIS directly, as well as on behalf of GCIS client departments, as and when required.

- 4.4 Develop methodologies for weighting, conduct weighting for surveys, and apply them in line with the most up-to-date estimated population figures. The weighting process should be benchmarked against the latest mid-year population estimates from Statistics South Africa (Stats SA) to ensure accuracy in reporting.
- 4.5 The appointed panel of consultants will be expected to work with the GCIS Ad hoc panel of research service providers regarding the statistical value chain.
- 4.6 To utilise GCIS data in developing a population segmentation model in collaboration with the GCIS research team to enhance government communication between the South African government and its citizens.

How to determine the appropriate fee rate

1. Determine the consultancy option/model by applying the following criteria:

"Short Term" means less than 60 consulting days

"Long Term" means more than 60 consulting days

"All Overheads" means consultant provides all overheads e.g., office, parking, telephone

"Partial Overheads" means department provides some overheads e.g. office, parking, telephone

"Mark-up" provides for company profit margin - service normally provided by consulting company

"No Mark-up" service normally provided by individuals or NGOs

2. Determine the appropriate salary band based on the level of work that is required e.g., use job evaluation to determine the level of work - Salary band 13 represents the level of a Director in the public service, 14 a Chief Director, 15 a DDG and 16 a DG.

3. The hourly fee rate should be read where the consultancy option/model intersects with the salary band.

4. Fee rates exclude operational/project expenditure e.g., travelling, hotel accommodation, parking, travel and subsistence allowance.

5. Value Added Tax is excluded from calculating hourly fee rates.
