Wednesday 3 June

10:30 - 12:00 Your Interactive Session entitled Fostering Inclusive Growth (Private Events for Africa)
Since the financial crisis, the question of how to unlock new sources of productive employment and strengthen the contribution of economic growth to progress in broad living standards has become an increasingly important concern for political and business leaders across the world. But while there is widespread international consensus on the need to develop new and improved growth and development models in this respect, little in the way of concrete policy guidance has emerged. There is a growing need for analytical frameworks and evidence-based solutions suited to this purpose.

Special Guest Invited

The Forum seeks to contribute to an improved understanding of how countries make use of the diverse spectrum of policy incentives and institutional mechanisms available to expand social inclusion in the process and benefits of economic growth without dampening incentives to work, save and invest.

Building upon an initial discussion with World Economic Leaders at our Annual Meeting in Davos this year, this private session will be among the first in a series of regional public-private dialogues among the leading decision makers in Africa and globally aimed at tackling this challenge. During the session we will discuss the Inclusive Growth and Development Benchmarking Framework (developed by the Forum) and share some initial findings and key takeaways for the region. Participants will also be invited to share their feedback and initial reactions along the following dimensions:

1. What are the main obstacles to advancing inclusive growth in Africa?
2. What are the key policy instruments and business practices needed to deliver more inclusive outcomes from growth?
3. How can the public, private sector and civil society join forces to tackle this regional challenge?

The session is highly interactive.
(The Westin Cape Town, Edward/Schappen)

15:00 - 17:00 Your Industry Partners Session entitled Promoting Financial Inclusion in Africa (Financial Services Industry Partners Meeting at Africa)
Tremendous opportunity exists in Africa to deliver a full range of quality, affordable financial products and services to lower-income individuals and small enterprises that are currently excluded from Africa's formal financial systems. Many African governments have taken steps to build and implement electronic payment systems that allow them to make regular government-to-person (G2P) payments electronically. The funds being transferred are typically salaries or social benefits, which helps ensure that the right beneficiaries are paid in full and on time. However, many countries have recognized the need for additional efforts to make these electronic transfers a true stepping-stone to full financial inclusion. Moving beyond simple G2P programs to creating enabling ecosystems for full financial inclusion requires multistakeholder collaboration.

How can public and private sector institutions collaborate to develop an economically sustainable model for electronic delivery of G2P payments that promotes savings and provides recipients with access to a suite of quality, affordable financial services, including credit and insurance?

What will it take to enable additional electronic transactions (e.g. money transfers, purchase of basic goods and services) linked to these G2P transfers?

How can accessible tools and information for financial management and capacity building also be incorporated?

The world's youngest continent is now the fastest-growing region, yet poverty persists, job creation is slow and inequality is rising. Learning from the past 25 years, what national and regional strategies can today's leaders pursue by appealing to and engaging Africa's youth over the next 25 years?

Dimensions to be addressed:

- Strengthening SMEs as a major pillar of inclusive growth
- Enforcing transparency and accountability for regional governance
- Harnessing technology for sustainable transformation

(IGWEL meeting for Africa)

Global economic conditions remain uncertain and complex, but growth in sub-Saharan Africa is forecast to increase to 4.5% in 2015 and 5.1% in 2016. This session brings together a diverse group of stakeholders to address measures which support regional growth in a sustained and inclusive way, particularly against a backdrop of low commodity prices and challenging fiscal and monetary policy.

- What concrete measures could support the region's macroeconomic policy frameworks, and how must fiscal and monetary policy adapt?
- What constraints do businesses face in this context and what steps would facilitate business and drive growth?
- What best practices and actions might stimulate cross-sectoral growth, encourage investment and create jobs?

This session is linked to a flagship Forum initiative

16:30 - 18:00 Your Workshop entitled Societies That Thrive: Shared Value of Civic Participation

(Private Events for Africa)

The narrative “Africa Rising” is very popular, and in many ways, it is true. Over the past decade six of the world’s ten fastest-growing countries were African, and across the continent, there is an improved business environment, rising consumer class, natural resources, and infrastructure development.

However, certain trends – continual and growing inequality, heightened discrimination, corruption and challenges to governance - are also rising in parallel to the economic growth. Falling levels of trust in the work of corporations and public authorities have become an increasingly critical issue and threaten the continent’s future evolution. Various forms of social mobilization are symptoms of a genuine desire for more engagement and established dialogue between governments and citizens, as well as consumers and businesses.

This session offers the platform for a multi-stakeholder discussion on some of the most pressing challenges in the region, in order to identify areas of common ground, strengthen civic engagement in public governance and enable more effective and courageous action on critical issues. Together with prominent leaders from the public and private sector, participants will discuss and provide recommendations for promoting change across four policy areas that are key for enforcing meaningful societal development:

- Democratic engagement
- Pluralism and discrimination
- Poverty and inequality
- Shared value creation in business practices

Wednesday 3 June

12:30 - 14:00	Your Industry Partners Session entitled Transforming the Development of Africa's Capital Markets (Financial Services Industry Partners Meeting at Africa) Capital markets play a critical role in economic development through the efficient allocation of domestic and international savings into productive investments. Africa's capital markets – particularly its local debt markets – are important to funding national priorities such as infrastructure development and to financing the growth needs of local companies. Without robust local capital markets, companies seeking financing are at risk of exchange rate volatility as they raise capital in foreign currencies, and Africa's economies are at risk of large disruptive fluxes in foreign capital inflow and outflow. Ensuring that domestic and international investor capital can meet the needs of both the private and public sectors is critical. This session will bring together a multi-stakeholder audience including financial institutions, investors, issuers and policymakers to discuss: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Africa's government bond market. How can African countries issue more sovereign debt in local currencies, at longer maturities, and to a wider range of investor types? How can African countries ensure that continued growth in the sovereign markets complements growth in the corporate markets? 2. Africa's corporate bond market. What are the key next steps in deepening Africa's domestic bond markets and expanding access to financing to a wider range of participants? What regulatory reforms should remain top of the agenda, and how will priorities differ across countries? 3. Regional vs. national approaches. What opportunities exist for enhancing regional market development approaches, such as the ones envisioned by the West African Capital Markets Integration Council (WACMIC) and the East African Community (EAC)? How can regional and national efforts to develop capital markets complement one another? (The Westin Cape Town, Vasco da Gama)	Opening Remarks by	Confirmed

Your Interactive Session entitled Informal Gathering of World Economic Leaders: Supporting Regional Growth
(IGWEL meeting for Africa)

Global economic conditions remain uncertain and complex, but growth in sub-Saharan Africa is forecast to increase to 4.5% in 2015 and 5.1% in 2016. This session brings together a diverse group of stakeholders to address measures which support regional growth in a sustained and inclusive way, particularly against a backdrop of low commodity prices and challenging fiscal and monetary policy.

- What concrete measures could support the region's macroeconomic policy frameworks, and how must fiscal and monetary policy adapt?
- What constraints do businesses face in this context and what steps would facilitate business and drive growth?
- What best practices and actions might stimulate cross-sectoral growth, encourage investment and create jobs?

08:00 - 09:30 Your Industry Partners Session entitled Investing for Impact (Industry Partnership Meeting for Investors at Africa)
Impact investing, an investment approach that actively targets positive social or environmental outcomes, can be a tool to reconcile shortcomings in traditional financial markets and create transformative societal benefits. Despite challenges associated with targeting financial returns alongside positive impact, impact investors are deploying capital into the energy, housing, agriculture, financial services, and healthcare sectors, among others. This session will explore:

Special Guest Invited

1. How investors deploy impact investing capital across asset classes and industries
2. How impact investments differ from traditional investments in their risk-return profiles
3. Actionable recommendations on how investors can add value, after deploying capital

The discussion will bring together investors, investees, and policy-makers to discuss these topics and analyse different impact investing approaches that yield strong financial and social returns.

- Eytan Stibbe (Confirmed), Founding Partner, Vital Capital Fund, Switzerland (Discussion Leader)

10:30 - 12:00 Your Interactive Session entitled Fostering Inclusive Growth (Private Events for Africa)
Since the financial crisis, the question of how to unlock new sources of productive employment and strengthen the contribution of economic growth to progress in broad living standards has become an increasingly important concern for political and business leaders across the world. But while there is widespread international consensus on the need to develop new and improved growth and development models in this respect, little in the way of concrete policy guidance has emerged. There is a growing need for analytical frameworks and evidence-based solutions suited to this purpose.

Special Guest Invited

The Forum seeks to contribute to an improved understanding of how countries make use of the diverse spectrum of policy incentives and institutional mechanisms available to expand social inclusion in the process and benefits of economic growth without dampening incentives to work, save and invest.

Building upon an initial discussion with World Economic Leaders at our Annual Meeting in Davos this year, this private session will be among the first in a series of regional public-private dialogues among the leading decision makers in Africa and globally aimed at tackling this challenge. During the session we will discuss the Inclusive Growth and Development Benchmarking Framework (developed by the Forum) and share some initial findings and key takeaways for the region. Participants will also be invited to share their feedback and initial reactions along the following dimensions:

1. What are the main obstacles to advancing inclusive growth in Africa?
2. What are the key policy instruments and business practices needed to deliver more inclusive outcomes from growth?
3. How can the public, private sector and civil society join forces to tackle this regional challenge?

The session is highly interactive.

(CTICC, Cultural Soirée)

Special Guest Invited

Friday 5 June

07:45 - 09:00 Your Industry Partners Session entitled Infrastructure Breakfast
(Infrastructure & Urban Development Industry Partnership Meeting at Africa)

Special Guest Invited

Despite negative headlines dominating coverage of Africa, the potential for investment remains exciting, with African GDP expected to grow well above the global average in 2015. But to achieve this growth, constraints need to be addressed, particularly those tied to power and transport infrastructure.

The Africa Strategic Infrastructure Initiative is a platform for private-sector engagement in the Programme for Infrastructure Development in Africa (PIDA) to potentially accelerate its implementation. PIDA constitutes 51 mega infrastructure programmes in the water, ICT, transport and energy sectors and has an estimated investment need of more than $68 billion to 2020. The initiative, led by the Forum in partnership with the African Development Bank, is endorsed by governmental, international and African business leaders and supported by the African Union Commission and NEPAD. In this session, heads of state and leaders from multilateral organizations and business will discuss the progress of the second phase of the initiative and deliberate the next steps.

Topics to address include:

- Report on the progress since the World Economic Forum Annual Meeting 2015
- Acceleration of Central Corridor, Investors forum held and second pilot scoped
- Exchange on priority topics to advance African infrastructure including project preparation and capacity building
- Complete transition of programme acceleration to NEPAD
(The Westin Cape Town, Vasco da Gama)

Your Interactive Session entitled The G20-B20 Agenda: Regional Consultation

(Private Events for Africa)

The G20-B20 dialogue offers a unique platform to support long term growth and stability across key economies. This session aims to bring together business leaders, public figures, as well as the Turkish G20 and B20 leadership, to offer both input into the agenda and strategies for implementation, across the following priority action areas:

- 1) Ensuring support for the multilateral global trading system, including discouraging protectionism
- 2) Creating an enabling environment to spur infrastructure financing
- 3) Developing an international business network to address anti-corruption

Minister of Women, Presidency of South Africa

Wednesday 3 June

19:30 - 21:30 Your Dinner entitled Challenge Dinner: Stepping Up to Impact on Gender Parity in the Workforce Participant Invited

(Private Events for Africa)

This dinner session convenes leaders who have taken successful actions towards gender equality in their organizations, communities or countries. The session provides a platform to understand the current status of women's economic empowerment and to discuss the way forward by looking at practical, replicable and innovative solutions and as well as ways to foster greater collaboration among leading actors to make a change.

Dimensions to be addressed:

- How to develop female talent that matches the present and future needs of the region?
- What are best practices for advancing female labour force participation and how can they be scaled?
- Is awareness translating into actions and if so what is the impact of these actions?
- How can the private and public sectors collaborate more effectively on women economic empowerment?

(The Westin Cape Town, Seal/Robben)
