

PICTORAL REPORT OF THE ORANGE-AFRICAN NATIONS CHAMPIONSHIP (CHAN) 2014 BIG SCREEN VIEWING AT EZAKHENI COMBINED BOARDING SCHOOL IN DONKERHOEK.

Date: 15/01/2014

Government Communication and Information System (GCIS): Mpumalanga

Background: South Africans and all sectors of society have a responsibility to use CHAN to promote the country as an investment and tourism destination; promote social cohesion and demonstrate a commitment to building a united Africa that truly belongs to all who live in it.

Given this short background, Government Communication & Information System (GCIS) and other stakeholders have a task to create awareness and get South Africans involved in the CHAN 2014 games. Viewing the CHAN games in Outdoor Public Viewing Areas (PVAs) and Indoor Big Screen Viewing Areas are some of the platforms through which South Africans all over the country get involved.

GCIS Mpumalanga took it upon itself to utilize the big screen viewing as one of the platforms to get South Africans involved in the CHAN 2014 games targeting and inspiring young people.

GCIS SCO-Mr Bongani Mazibuko informing the youth about the CHAN 2014 and also about match fixtures for matches still to be played.

It's a Gooooaaaaa!!!! Celebrating SA's first goal in this match (SA vs Mali).

Excited young people of Ezakheni Combined Boarding School, educators and some house-keeping staff watching the match on the Big Screen brought to their doorstep, also blowing the Vuvuzelas and enjoying the material distributed by GCIS.

Excited young people of Ezakheni Combined Boarding School watching the match on the Big Screen brought to their doorstep by GCIS.

Good mood at Musina camp truck screen viewing

Photo caption: Musina foreign viewing game at Musina refugee camp 16/01/2014.

Photo caption: (Above) Musina Compassion ministry foreign international viewing game.

Good mood at Musina camp truck screen viewing

Photo caption: Musina foreign viewing game at Musina refugee camp 16/01/2014.

Photo caption: (Above) Musina Compassion ministry foreign international viewing game.